KANSAS STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

THIRTIETH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

DECEMBER 5, 1905.

The thirtieth annual meeting of the board of directors was held in the hall of the house of representatives, Topeka, beginning at two o'clock P. M., December 5, 1905, and was presided over by Robert M. Wright, president of the Society. The following members were in attendance:

John G. Haskell, Daniel R. Anthony, jr., Frank W. Blackmar, Horace L. Moore, William H. Carruth, Hill P. Wilson, William E. Richey, James R. Mead, William E. Connelley, John Martin, Lucy D. Kingman, Robert M. Wright, John S. Dawson, Percival G. Lowe, Samuel F. Woolard, J. Earll Miller, John Guthrie, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Johnson, Delbert A. Valentine, John MacDonald, Mrs. Julia A. Chase, Mrs. Caroline Prentis, Fred. Wellhouse, Charles W. Smith, George W. Glick, George W. Martin, Miss Zu Adams.

Letters of regret were read by the secretary from the following members: George Leis, of Lawrence; Frank H. Hodder, of the State University; Daniel W. Wilder, of Hiawatha; J. C. Ruppenthal, of Russell; William J. Griffing, of Manhattan, whose mother was seriously ill, and Charles M. Harvey, of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

REPORT OF SECRETARY.

Mr. Martin, secretary, submitted to the members, for their consideration, printed copies of the following annual report of the Society for the year ending June 30, 1905, which, on motion, was accepted:

The work of the State Historical Society continues to broaden, and the history of Kansas is always of absorbing interest. The year closing with this thirtieth annual meeting has been of value to the work and to the state in several directions.

LEGISLATIVE FAVORS.

The action of the legislature of 1905 greatly strengthened this Society, and the Society and its work now constitute a department of state on the same footing as all other state officers. For thirty years the work of the Society, its salaries and its incidental expenses have been provided for by the state through biennial appropriation bills. The last legislature, however, stated by statute the number of employees the Society shall have and the salaries to be paid to each. Again, the connection between the state and the Society was made more certain by the enactment of a law establishing, in connection with its work, a department of archives, more fully spoken of elsewhere. An additional room and $600 to shelve the same were provided for newspaper files. The battle-flags of Kansas were transferred from the adjutant-general's office to the museum of the Historical Society, and $1000 appropriated for a plate-glass case in which to preserve and exhibit them. An appropriation of $1000 was made to mark the Santa Fe trail, and also $2500, provided the state of Colorado would give a like amount, to place a monument on Beecher island, where the battle of Arick-aree occurred, September 17, 1868. The flags are in our possession, but not yet in place. The monument on Beecher island was unveiled on the anniversary, September 17, 1905. The location is but a few miles across the line in Colorado, but all the men engaged in the battle except three were pioneer settlers of Lincoln and Ottawa counties, Kansas.

AMERICAN HISTORICAL ASSOCIATION.

In accordance with instructions given at your session of one year ago, I attended the twentieth annual meeting of the American Historical Association, held in Chicago, December 28, 29, and 30, 1904. You have held membership and paid dues in this association since the beginning, or for twenty years, and this was the first time you were represented. The first impression I felt was that this had been a mistake. Although very close to the front in the line of historical work, Kansas seemed a stranger. The meeting was attended by about 300 delegates. About forty represented local and state societies, the remainder consisting of college professors and students of history. It embraces many great scholars and others whose whole thought centered in historical work. An association of three days with such a body could not be otherwise than profitable. It was so to me personally, and I think I have put a little of what I gained into your work. The sessions were held three times a day, each session oftentimes in two or three sections, from Wednesday morning till midnight Friday. One afternoon was given to a conference of state and local societies. The discussion of public records and archives and a comparison of detail work by each secretary was of incalculable value in the way of suggestions. The history of Kansas is of greater importance than that of any other state, and the work of this Society in caring for it, as demonstrated in comparison with others, could not have been better in scope and efficiency. It is sometimes gratifying and always of interest to compare ourselves with others.

Because of some difficulty in spending our contingent fund for expenses to such a meeting, you directed that our membership-fee fund be used in this way. Accordingly, I drew sixty-five dollars, and upon my return I restored to the membership fund twenty-one dollars, making the cost of the trip to the Society forty-four dollars. I repeat a statement made a year ago, that there are a half a dozen or so associations of specialists in this country in which Kansas could be represented with more profit than in a political sense at Washington. The state should furnish money for delegations to conferences continually held for the public good.

It was my pleasure also to attend the meeting of the Pacific coast branch of the American Historical Association, at Portland, Ore., August 21 and 22. The latter date was given entirely to local and state societies. The views of others were full of thought, and further satisfaction obtained through comparison. Representatives were present from Wisconsin, Iowa, several of the interior states, and all of the coast, and the reports from some of the newer sections of the old history they had were of absorbing interest.

The twenty-first annual meeting of the historical association will be held at Johns Hopkins University, in Baltimore, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, December 26, 27, and 28, and in the library of Congress, Washington, D. C., Friday, the 29th, 1905. On Thursday there will be a conference on "The Problems of State and Local Historical Societies," under the direction of Thomas M. Owen, of the department of archives and history, state of Alabama. Papers will be read on the "Relation of the College Chair, Department of American History, to the Work of Historical Societies"; "How Far Should the Activities of Historical Societies Embrace Archaeological Investigation"; "Publishing Activities of the Historical Societies of the Old Northwest"; "Documentary Collections and Publications of the Old States of the South"; "The Publication Problems of Historical Societies," and "Spanish Archives of the Natchez District."

A DEPARTMENT OF ARCHIVES.

A feature of the discussions of the historical association at Chicago which interested me most was the subject of archives and documents. It is demonstrated that the study of history is limited almost entirely to documents and papers. I learned that this subject has become of such national interest that a public-record office has been advised by the secretaries of some of the departments at Washington, and has the approval of leading members of Congress. The suggestion is each year more and more frequently made. Hon. J. R. Burrow, secretary of state, tells me his office contains a large amount of papers that must be disposed of to make room; that they are of great value, and should be properly catalogued for intelligent use. The same condition prevails in every department of the state-house, and in every county court-house. After consultation with several state officers, the following law was submitted to the legislature:

AN ACT to provide for the care and preservation of public records.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Kansas:

SECTION 1. That any state, county or other official is hereby authorized and empowered to turn over to the Kansas State Historical Society, for permanent preservation therein, any books, records, documents, original papers, or manuscripts, newspaper files and printed books not required by law to be kept in such office as a part of the public records, three years after the current use of the same, or sooner in the discretion of the head of the department. When so surrendered, copies therefrom shall be made and certified by the secretary of the Historical Society upon the application of any party interested, which certification shall have all the force and effect as if made by the officer originally in custody of them.

SEC. 2. That the State Historical Society is hereby required to make a reference catalogue to the manuscripts, books and papers so surrendered.

It was received with expressions of astonishment that something of the kind had not already been done. It passed each house without a dissenting vote, and is now in the statute-book of 1905, chapter 353, page 597.

The Executive Council promptly set aside a small sum for fitting up a room in the cellar of the capitol building for the care and preservation of such material. Some methodical plan for relieving the counties, cities and towns of the accumulation of papers must be formulated before many years, but the destruction of books and papers should now cease. There is an absolute obligation resting upon the state and its various subdivisions for the preservation and care of its archives.

The removal from an old court-house to a new one often leads to the discarding of some part of the papers which have been stored on the shelves, and which are deemed of no further value in the current work of the office. Such papers often contain lists of names, with dates, and perhaps other matter identifying individuals, their occupations, etc., of great use in a genealogical way. Some months ago, after such a change in a Kansas county court-house, a lot of mildewed papers of this character was found in a dump, among them druggists' permits, road-tax-rolls, petitions for the opening of roads, blank books in which were listed the soldiers of the late war, their widows, and orphans, together with many letters of a historic nature dealing with a great variety of county affairs. They were cumbersome, not indexed, could not be referred to, but all worthy of preservation. In the archives department these will be arranged by counties, years, subjects, etc., indexed, and made available for any use required. The laws of Kansas are not effective in collecting complete statistics of births, deaths, and marriages, so that the preservation of any documents which will in a measure supplement those of the incomplete records kept by the county boards of health and county assessors is important.

The attention of the various county and municipal officers is respectfully called to the statute herein quoted. Those interested may now know that there is a central and permanent place for the preservation of old records, and save them until it is convenient to get them to Topeka. Many states, besides maintaining historical societies, are establishing, in addition, a department for the care of archives. Members of the Historical Society and the friends of history in each county can aid materially in selecting from the papers and records of county and city officers the more important matter immediately and before further destruction. Although the Historical Society has no especial fund for defraying the expense of organizing and putting in shape a department of archives, still, by close economy, it can spare a small sum from its contingent fund for the transportation of such records by freight to Topeka.

But little has been accomplished so far under the law concerning archives, because the last legislature gave the state architect $500,000 of new buildings at the various state institutions to plan and erect. As soon as the room is fitted for the work we will vigorously push the gathering of the material contemplated. A circular has been issued to all interested, soliciting shipments, and warning all not to burn or destroy. I predict that this feature of our collection will be of untold value.

FIRST CONTRIBUTION TO ARCHIVES.

The first lot of manuscripts turned over to the archives department came from Gen. J. W. F. Hughes, the overflow found in moving the adjutant-general's office into new quarters. After a careful sorting and arrangement, which occupied the time of two young women for two months, these have resolved themselves into the following classes:

1. Letters and papers relating to the promotion and services of the soldiers of the First to Seventeenth Kansas volunteer regiments, 1861-'79, including papers on the organization of the Fourteenth to Seventeenth: to the First and Second Kansas Colored, afterwards the Seventy-ninth and Eighty-third United States Colored infantry; the First, Second and Third Kansas batteries and Independent Colored Kansas battery; and a number of letters relating to Kansas men serving in regiments enlisted from other states. With the above are many important communications from United States authorities relating to the organization and equipment of Kansas troops.

2. Letters and papers on the organization and personnel of the Kansas militia during the war, and until 1879. These last are perhaps of more importance to the subject than those relating to the volunteer regiments, which have a fuller recorded history. Among the militia papers during the war are many written by the settlers on the eastern border of Kansas, expressing their fear of raids from Missouri, others telling of the presence of Dick Yeager's men along the Santa Fe trail in Kansas, and relating to the Quantrill massacres at Lawrence and Baxter Springs, and to services in Indian regiments.

3. Papers relating to the attempted draft of Kansas men in 1865.

4. By far the most interesting of this instalment of manuscripts are those from the settlers on the frontier, from 1868 to 1879, telling of Indian depredations and petitioning for military protection, or for arms and ammunition with which to protect themselves. There are fifty-eight papers relating to the Eighteenth Kansas, a cavalry battalion which served on the border from July to December, 1867, and to the Nineteenth Kansas cavalry, first under the command of Gov. Samuel J. Crawford, and later of Col. H. L. Moore, which marched to the assistance of General Sheridan in the Indian Territory, during the severe winter of 1868-'69. Ninety-eight papers relate to the organization and service of the Frontier Guard, a cavalry battalion which served from September to December, 1868, to protect the border from Sedgwick to Jewell counties. The Indian scares or actual hostilities followed one another with little cessation until 1875, provoking an active interest in all parts of the state in the organization and equipment of the militia, to which this correspondence testifies. In 1878 occurred the latest raid, when a band of Northern Cheyennes left their agency in the Indian Territory, crossed our state, devastating the farms, and killing our settlers from Ford county to Rawlins county, occupying eighteen days in their course, with but one unsuccessful interruption by U. S. troops. These letters cover all this period from 1868 to 1878, written by all grades of citizens—the hardy westerner (praying for a rifle of the latest pattern, such as the Indians have) to the European immigrant who employs a translator in writing his appeal for arms and ammunition, and signs it with the other members of his colony, who say they have learned to fight in the old world and only need the means with which to defend themselves in the new. Here is a little bunch of letters wanting definite information regarding the death of a French boy who enlisted in the Eighteenth regiment at Fort Leavenworth and died of cholera in the epidemic at Fort Harker in the same month. Two letters in broken English protest against the killing of some

Pawnee scouts returning from service under the government, who happened to fall into the hands of some scoundrels in a Western town.

5. Letters and papers relating to the Cherokee neutral-land controversy in Bourbon, Crawford and Cherokee counties in 1869-'70; written by Governor Harvey, James F. Joy, the county officials, General Schofield, of the United States army, Amos Sanford, and many others—thirty-three documents—an important contribution to the subject.

6. Telegrams relating to the strike of the trainmen of the A. T. & S. F. railroad, at Emporia, in April, 1878, and the sending there by Governor Anthony of a company of Leavenworth militia, under Capt. J. C. Walkinshaw, much against the will of the civil authorities of Emporia. Several of these forty-eight telegrams relate to other companies ordered to be ready for service, and the incident is closed by a lengthy report of the operations by Captain Walkinshaw.

7. A small bunch of papers relate to the Price raid claims, and many of the militia papers for 1864 relate to service in the Price raid, in October of that year.

8. Miscellaneous papers and correspondence received by the governor and adjutant-general relating to the current work of their offices.

We have the original papers in a very sharp controversy between David J. Brewer, judge of the district court in Leavenworth, and Maj.-gen. John Pope, concerning the jurisdiction of the civil and military authorities, and a series of resolutions adopted by the Leavenworth bar in August, 1865. It was alleged that forty-nine ponies had been stolen along the southern line of the state from Indians, and General Pope, in charge of the ponies, resisted all civil writs concerning them. The correspondence talks much about military despotism and the rights of a loyal state, without reconstruction troubles, to be wholly free from military interference. General Pope claimed that the state courts protected the thieves, and that he was determined to punish the rogues; and there was much talk of a clash between the Kansas militia and the regular troops. Judge Brewer responded that, in the two years he was judge of the criminal court of Leavenworth, he sentenced more horse-thieves to the Penitentiary than the military tribunals had since the beginning of the war.

A glance through these papers, and others we have stored away, recalls so much that has been forgotten that I think it not extravagant to say that Kansas has lost more history than some states have made, all told.

PERSONAL LETTERS.

The Society has also received some very valuable contributions in the way of personal letters. About 600 in all, we have from the estates of the Rev. John Anderson, D. D. (Washington county, Pennsylvania, 1802-'35), the Rev. William C. Anderson, D. D. (Chillicothe, Ohio, and San Francisco, Cal., 1827-'72), Col. John B. Anderson (New Albany, Ind., and Manhattan, Kan., 1845-'97), and Hon. John A. Anderson (Stockton, Cal., and Manhattan, Kan., 1857-'92), which are of great historic interest along social, religious, political and business lines. Dr. John Anderson was a pioneer and Indian missionary, from North Carolina west to Natchez, and through Pennsylvania to northern Illinois. Dr. William C. Anderson, his son, was a distinguished Presbyterian divine, and at one time president of Miami University. Col. John B. Anderson was a noted railroad man and interested also in educational matters, in whose honor Andrew Carnegie erected a library building, without conditions, for the College of Emporia. He served as a division superintendent of the Pennsylvania, general superintendent of the Fort Wayne road, also of the Louisville & Nashville, and during the civil war was military superintendent of railroads in the army of the Cumberland. At the close of the war he became an effective promoter of the Union Pacific, Eastern Division, and was the principal stockholder in the railroad contracting firm of Shoemaker, Miller & Co., who built the road through Kansas. There are about forty letters, circulars and statements from this great firm of railroad builders—the only scratch of a pen in history about them. The Rev. John A., son of William C., left a pastorate in California to enter the army, became connected with the sanitary commission, and settled in Kansas in 1868. He established the Kansas State Agricultural College on its present basis, served twelve years in Congress, and died while consul at Cairo, Egypt. Here were four men of remarkable power, and an assortment of 600 letters from their correspondence, covering about ninety years, and, including so much in Kansas, is of untold value to the collections of this Society.

There have also been received from the estate of James L. McDowell 151 letters of much interest of a general nature concerning politics and public affairs. There are many letters from Thomas Carney, second governor of the state, written while in office, throwing light on official and military doings. General McDowell was the first United States marshal after the admission of the state, mayor of Leavenworth, and very prominent in business and agricultural interests.

Col. P. H. Coney, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, also filed with the Society 168 letters, of a political, military and biographical nature. Many of these letters are priceless from a historical standpoint, as they pertain to the lives and services of soldiers of the civil war.

STATE ADMINISTRATIONS.

About a year and a half ago an examination of our records brought out the fact that Hon. Edward Russell had read, at an annual meeting of the Society, a paper on Thomas Carney, second governor of Kansas. The paper was never filed with the Society, and a search among the effects left by Mr. Russell failed to find it. This is most deplorable, and suggests an injustice that your program committee has lately sought to eliminate as to others.

Thomas Carney, at a time when poverty characterized all Kansas, was a man of means obtained through legitimate business channels as a merchant; and second, he was governor when the state was poverty itself, and war on the border was bitter and relentless. He pledged his private fortune to hold up the state's credit, actually advancing a large sum from his own means to do so; he gave $5000 to start the State University; he contributed $1000 to aid the sufferers from the Quantrill raid; and in every case of outrage on the border his pocket gave up from $500 to $1000. That there was ever a time when this state of great riches was penniless, and that it had one citizen able and willing to sustain it from his private purse, is an incident in our history too wonderfully interesting to be forgotten. It is a humiliating reflection upon our people and upon this Society that it has been forgotten. Thomas Carney was a victim of politics. He was a great business man, giving to the state a genius in this direction greatly needed from 1863 to 1865, and, from recollection, it can safely be said that his administration was most acceptable. But he has dropped out of history, as have hundreds of others, overwhelmed by an eternal clatter as to whether three or four others were angels or devils. It is the duty of this Society, and the friends of history in every county, to gather up the neglected, and thus do justice to all.

It has been impossible to find anybody to write a paper on the administration of Carney. But your program committee has been active as to others. We will have sketches of the administrations of Samuel J. Crawford, the third governor, of John P. St. John, George W. Glick, Lyman U. Humphrey, Edmund N. Morrill, and John W. Leedy, in time for publication in the ninth volume of our collections, in the spring of 1906. When time has blotted out the controversies and passions of the hour, it is clear that much valuable history characterizes each administration, the details being lost unless brought out in this way. True, our governors appear in the various biographical publications, but there is not much historical detail in eulogy. A difficulty to overcome is the idea which prevails with all, that present happenings are of no consequence; that usually men do not prize their own work until twenty or twenty-five years after; that only that which is old is history. The effort will be continued, however, until all the administrations are covered.

The affairs of administration have not alone been with the executives. Subordinate officers, in the various changes since statehood, have had something to do with the condition of things to-day. History is the story of development. We have celebrated the semicentennial of territorial organization, and a movement is already on foot to celebrate the semicentennial of our admission as a state, in 1911. The story should be as complete by that time as possible. As the authority of last resort, the supreme court and its minor divisions have had a wide influence, contributing wisdom in shaping our destiny as a people. There is opportunity for a great paper on the judiciary of the state, from the beginning down to the present. This Society is charged by the state with keeping the records, and there should be a posting of the books by the time of our semicentennial.

The lawmaking branch of the government has also contributed greatly to the varied and interesting history of Kansas. We have had, since 1861, seventeen annual sessions, fifteen biennial sessions and five special sessions of the state legislature. We have a sketch or description of the legislature of 1862, written by Hon. F. P. Baker. Of the first state legislature, as far as known, there are still living: P. P. Elder, Samuel D. Houston; Robert Morrow, J. M. Hubbard, and S. E. Hoffman, state senators; and David E. Ballard, Ambrose U. Mussey, James McGrew, W. W. H. Lawrence, and Samuel J. Crawford, members of the house of representatives. Of the last territorial legislature, elected in 1860, John T. Burris and Benjamin F. Simpson are the only ones living.

A majority of the older states have published under various titles, such as "Archives," "Calendars of State Papers," "Records of Governors and Councils," etc., etc., the early official papers of their colonial and state governments. For instance, Pennsylvania has published upwards of seventy-five volumes of "Archives," embracing the original papers found in the office of the secretary of the commonwealth, among which are the transfers of lands from the Indians to William Penn, correspondence with the other colonies and the mother country, papers and reports on military affairs, intercourse with the Indians, French and Indian wars, rolls and other papers of the revolution. The last thirty-one volumes are largely devoted to assessors' rolls, particularly valuable as showing residence and property of individuals, by counties. Iowa has issued the seventh volume of her governors' messages, inaugural addresses, and proclamations. Such material is real history, and in Kansas, though but fifty years old, many of these state papers have already been lost. This society has already published, in its third, fourth and fifth volumes, the executive minutes and correspondence of the Kansas territorial governors as completely as the material could be obtained among the papers on file in the offices of the secretaries of state, at Topeka and at Washington. The publication of the administration sketches referred to should be supplemented by the official correspondence and minutes of each governor.

THE LIBRARY AND ITS NEEDS.

Our library has long been in need of some general reference works, which have in part been supplied during the past year, preventing the purchase of many desired additions to our genealogical and local history departments. The following are among the more expensive additions of this class: The Encyclopedia Americana, in 16 volumes; the Historians' History of the World, 25 volumes; Lee's History of North America, 17 volumes; Thwaites's Early Western Travels; and Fortier's History of Louisiana. We have already a remarkable collection of books on Western travels, North American Indians, local history of the United States, and genealogy. There is a growing demand for these books, and our library is naturally expected to supply the want. In all these departments there is a constant increase of new publications. We should be prepared to keep up with the desire for the new and to pick up the older books when found in the second-hand catalogues. I believe it is now time for the members of our Society to unite with the patriotic organizations of Kansas in securing for our library the means to supply its deficiencies in at least two of these departments. We should also be prepared to avail ourselves of the catalog cards printed by Congress and the American Library Association in cataloging our general library. We are constantly adding to our files of current magazines, though expending very little of our book fund in subscriptions other than for those of a historical character. It has occurred to me that the members of the Society might directly aid in supplying our wants in this line. Each of you probably subscribes for one or more of the current magazines, the issues of which you do not preserve. Will it be out of place for me to suggest that when a sufficient number have accumulated of those you do not care to keep, that you put them into a packing-box and ship them by freight to the Society. I mention the following magazines as samples of what we want: The earlier issues of the Atlantic Monthly, Chautauqua, Current Literature, Cosmopolitan, Critic, American Magazine (New York), Harper's Monthly, Lippincott, Munsey, Potter's American Monthly; later issues of the Century, Forum, Arena, Ainslee's, North American, Public Opinion, Review of Reviews, Nation (1894-1900), American Journal of Politics, American Magazine of Civics, and Political Science Quarterly.

OUR FIRST CENTENNIAL.

The friends in Republic county who, in 1901, so enthusiastically commemorated the action of Zebulon Montgomery Pike in first raising the American flag on Kansas soil, September 29, 1806, will, on the anniversary, next year, give the state its first centennial. At the close of 100 years of the flag in Kansas there will be a celebration, lasting perhaps a week. The Pawnee Historical Society and the neighbors are already moving in the matter. The people of Nebraska will be invited, and it is the purpose to have an interstate reunion of the Grand Army. The Sons and Daughters of the Revolution, the Federated Women's Clubs of the two states and other organizations will be invited to participate. September 29, 1906, will close 100 years of the flag in Kansas. If it comes up to the demonstrations of the people of Republic county in 1901, when the state marked the site by a handsome granite shaft, a high pace will be set for similar Kansas events in the future, and it will be worthy the attention of the people in the remotest corner of the state. The people of Colorado, on the 14th of November following, will celebrate the centennial of the discovery of Pike's Peak by the gallant soldier and intrepid explorer who gave this interesting incident to Kansas; and so it becomes the people of Republic county to set a high mark.

THE PICTURE COLLECTION.

We have received some very interesting additions to our picture collection. A life-size painting of George W. Brown, of Rockford, Ill., the gift of Sara T. D. Robinson, recalls the work for Kansas of the noted editor of the Herald of Freedom. George W. Brown's present acquaintance in Kansas is limited, because he left the state in the spring of 1865, but his connection with Kansas history can never be effaced. The painting is the work of Harry Sable Hubbell, a nephew of Mr. Brown, and an artist of national reputation. Mr. Hubbell was born at Paola, Kan., educated at Lawrence, and, graduating from the art institute in Chicago, he now enjoys a high standing among the artists of Paris, London, and this country. We have received also life-sized pictures of Thomas Bickerton and wife. Mr. Bickerton was an English man-of-war's man who came to Kansas during the territorial struggle, and became artilleryman for the free-state party. The wife still lives, in Florida. John M. Dunsmore has placed on our walls a monogram of the officers of the populist house of representatives in the legislative troubles of 1893, including himself, as speaker; Robert H. Semple, speaker pro tem.; Leroy F. Dick, sergeant at arms; Ben C. Rich, chief clerk. Samuel Radges, in behalf of the defunct Ananias club, of Topeka, contributed the pictures of William A. Sells, G. G. Gage, John C. Caldwell, Samuel A. Kingman, Samuel Radges, and a conception of St. Ananias by Henry Worrall, the property of said club. We have also received the pictures of Hon. John Martin, Col. Charles R. Jennison, H. C. Loomis, monograms of the legislatures of 1885 and 1889, and Percival G. Lowe and wife, Susan B. Anthony, and others of historical significance and value.

GOVERNMENT REPORTS AND DOCUMENTS.

We have had many accessions to our collection of congressional reports and government documents. Of the volumes dating from 1774 to 1815 we have thirty-three. We have no means of knowing how many books there were in this series. Of the thirty-eight volumes of state papers issued during the first fourteen Congresses we have thirty-five. Beginning with the fifteenth Congress, or about 1815, when the present system of numbering began, we have 4419 volumes out of 4751 issued. This leaves but 332 to perfect the set. The government has adopted a serial number for distinguishing each volume, and by means of which they are referred to in the published indexes, and in the card index which is now distributed with the volumes. When these index cards first came out a sufficient number of each was distributed to allow of use for subject headings. For some reason but one card is now issued, making it necessary to write the subject cards.

THE KANSAS CATALOG.

The cataloging of the Kansas library has progressed this year along the same lines as in the past. The manuscript catalog numbers 10,560 titles; the picture catalog, 8480 cards, averaging two or more pictures to the card; while author, title and subject catalogue of the Kansas library proper numbers 15,336 cards.

JANUARY 29.

On the 29th of January, 1905, about 300 Kansas women met in the corridor, fourth floor of the state-house, adjoining the historical rooms, to celebrate in a non-partizan manner the anniversary of the admission of Kansas into the Union. They had a splendid program, of a patriotic and historic character, their action being impelled by the very clever claim that Kansas day is as much the property of the women as of the men. They resolved to form a permanent organization. The corridor occupied by them has since been taken for the use of the Goss bird collection, but by moving our curio and specimen cases on the south corridor, same floor, a very creditable audience room can be furnished them. The history of the world shows that the patriotism and self-sacrifice of woman have always been an essential feature of all states and peoples. This Society and its work have drawn largely from the heroic women of each year since the first settlement, and their movement to celebrate our natal day along historical lines is entitled to the respect and encouragement of this Society and every citizen.

TERRITORIAL PIONEERS.

During the year this Society has suffered in the loss, by death, of Col. Alexander S. Johnson, the fifth white child born in the state; Frank C. Montgomery, a brilliant newspaper man, whose childhood recollections began with the awful carnage, August 21, 1863, at Lawrence; Hon. E. W. Cunningham, associate justice of the supreme court, and Rev. H. D. Fisher, D. D., whose services began in territorial days. Here is a mingling of the old and the young, of the early and the latter day—a fulfilment of the decree that we must all yield to others. The territorial pioneers are falling every day. We have reached a period in our existence as a commonwealth when we can count people who have enjoyed fifty years of citizenship. It is not possible to gain in this class of citizens; such friends will always be rare, and will soon expire, because fifty years from 1854 means no more than fifty years from 1855, 1856, 1857, etc., except as to the native sons of Kansas. Of the territorial pioneers, the fifty-year class must necessarily be limited. It was their destiny to make a home in a new country, and their lives have been lengthened so that they have been enabled to see the great advancement of their beloved state in civilization and material improvement. What a favored people! There will never be another generation that will witness as much.

THE MEMBERSHIP.

The annual membership for the year ending June 30, 1905, was 146. There was a balance in the membership-fee fund at the same date of $62.40. At the opening of this meeting the fee fund amounted to $220.40. At this date 128 have paid their annual dues for the year ending June 30, 1906. There are now fifteen life members.

The report of the treasurer, John Guthrie, for the year ending June 30, 1905, was read and accepted, as follows:

The committee on nominations, through John MacDonald, made a report of names presented for nomination to fill vacancies in the board of directors, and for active, life and honorary membership in the Society, which was read by the secretary and approved for action at the evening meetings of the Society and board of directors.

Upon motion of Samuel F. Woolard, of Wichita, the secretary was authorized to prepare an application blank for the purpose of enabling the members of the Historical Society to solicit memberships in the organization.

William E. Connelley offered the following resolutions, which were adopted as amended:

Resolved, That the secretary of this Society be directed to attend the annual sessions of the American Historical Association to be held after this date until the Society shall order otherwise, and that this Society pay the necessary expenses of such attendance out of the membership-fee fund.

Resolved, That the librarian of this Society be directed to attend the annual sessions of the American Library Association to be held after this date until the Society shall order otherwise, and that this Society pay the necessary expenses of such attendance out of the membership-fee fund.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Johnson, of Courtland, presented the following invitation in the name of the Pawnee Historical Society:

REPUBLIC CITY, December 2, 1905.

To the Honorable President and Members of the Kansas State Historical Society: The Pawnee Historical Society, of Republic county, Kansas, extends to the Kansas State Historical Society a cordial invitation to assist in the celebration of the one-hundredth anniversary of the raising of the flag of the United States upon the soil of Kansas, September 29, 1806, by Lieut.

Zebulon M. Pike, at the village of the Pawnee republic. The celebration will occupy the week beginning September 24, 1906, and it is hoped that the various patriotic and social organizations of Kansas will assist in making the celebration a complete success.

D. E. FORISTALL,
President of Pawnee Historical Society.

Upon motion of Judge John Martin, the invitation was accepted, and the president directed to appoint a committee of three to confer with the Pawnee Historical Society, and make all necessary arrangements for the participation of the State Historical Society in the celebration.

In pursuance of the above resolution, the president appointed the following committee: Jas. R. Mead, Lucy D. Kingman, Geo. W. Martin.

The following resolution, offered by Mr. Dawson, was adopted upon the second of Mr. Connelley:

Resolved, By the Kansas State Historical Society, that the senators and representatives in Congress from Kansas are respectfully requested to aid in the passage of Senator Lodge's bill, No. 1904, establishing a United States historical commission; the purpose being to secure the originals or copies of documents and manuscripts from the mother countries of Europe affecting the history of America.

Brief verbal reports were made by the following committees:

Santa Fe and Overland Trails: Mrs. Prentis reported that the state society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. William E. Stanley, of Wichita, regent, and Miss Grace Meeker, of Ottawa, secretary, was actively employed in efforts to popularize the movement for the placing of markers along the Santa Fe trail, and that Kansas Day was to be generally celebrated in the public schools of Kansas, giving special prominence to the history of the trail.

On motion of Judge John Martin, the thanks of the Society were accorded the committee, and it was ordered that the committee be continued.

Historic Relics: Mrs. Julia A. Chase presented the Society with a framed photo group of thirteen members of the Grand Army of the Republic and Woman's Relief Corps, taken in front of the Mother Bickerdyke Home, Ellsworth, July 19, 1897, and also with a bayonet, cartridge and United States coat button, picked up on the site of Fort Zarah. She stated that some relics of Mother Bickerdyke, now the property of her son Hiram, a resident of Montana, would later be presented to the Society.

On motion of Judge John Guthrie, seconded by Prof. W. H. Carruth, the thanks of the Society were extended to Mrs. Chase or her active interest in the work of her committee.

William E. Connelley, chairman of the committee on local history, interviews, and chronicles, made a brief statement of his own work in this line since coming to the state:

MR. PRESIDENT: This is the first report I have submitted as chairman of this committee. I have been engaged in the collection of original documents and papers pertaining to the history of Kansas and the West generally since 1881, the year I came to live in Kansas. I cannot here enumerate all that I have secured, but will briefly give an idea of the extent of my collection. While these documents and papers are my individual property, I expect to turn them over to the State Historical Society later.

1. Wyandot papers. I have hundreds of documents, letters, diaries and journals relating to the settlement of the Wyandot Indians in Wyandotte county; and these include the records of the Wyandot mission at Upper Sandusky back to 1827, letters of Lewis Cass, William Henry Harrison, Hon. John Johnston, Indian agent at Upper Piqua, Ohio, for many years, and who removed the Delawares and Shawnees to the West, and many others; diary of Rev. Russell Bigelow, one of the founders of Ohio Methodism; articles written by Gov. William Walker on the early settlement of Ohio, and many other papers by him and others concerning the Wyandot nation in Ohio. This collection contains the death-warrant of the first legal execution ever had in what is now Kansas, together with the confession of the man executed. There are many letters written before the use of envelopes, and they were sealed with wafers and sent through the mails without covering; there are hundreds of them, all of interest and relating to the history of the two cities at the mouth of the Kansas river. There are many interviews by me of first settlers, copies of family records from Bibles, and a full and complete record of the division of the Methodist church into north and south jurisdictions—and the contest in this division was fiercer in the Wyandot nation than at any other place I know of. This collection contains also the only complete vocabulary of the Wyandot language ever gathered; also vocabularies of other Indian languages, and many folk-lore stories of Wyandot and other tribes.

2. Papers relating to the territorial period of Kansas history. These papers contain letters, statements and articles of many pioneers, gathered by me for my use in writing on that period.

3. Papers pertaining to the border wars between Kansas and Missouri. These contain letters, articles and interviews with pioneers who took active parts in these border troubles. They include much about Quantrill and his depredations on Kansas people, and his raids and murders. Both sides are represented, and the truth can be had from the perusal of these papers.

Running through all these collections are letters, papers, interviews and documents relating to no particular incident or matter, but having something pertaining to several or all the periods.

Among interviews, I will mention but few, to give an idea of the nature of this feature of the collection:

February 1, 1900. Interview with Permelia Hubbard Curtis, grandmother of Hon. Charles Curtis. She was born in Berkshire county, Massachusetts, May 14, 1807, and was a pioneer in Michigan, Indiana, and Kansas.

February 5, 1900. Interview with Richard J. Hinton.

March 2, 1900. Interview with Edwin R. Partridge.

July 19, 1900. Interview with Jacob Willetts.

August 4, 1900. Interview with John Ward Brown, blacksmith to the Pottawatomies, at Uniontown, in preterritorial days.

June 2, 1901. Interview with Julia Ann Stinson, born in what is now Wyandotte county, in 1831.

Many interviews with John Armstrong, the only man now living who assisted in selecting the Topeka town site.

The above names will serve to show the extensive character of these interviews and statements of pioneers. They amount to hundreds of pages on the subject of the border troubles alone.

My collections relating to eastern Kentucky cover genealogy of the people, accurate accounts of the early settlements, old roads, forts, and Indian depredations. These accounts exist nowhere else. There are many pension declarations of soldiers of the revolution who settled there after the great conflict, and their descendants are many in that country now. Johnson county, Kentucky, is my native county.

Recently I have come into possession of the original autograph manuscript of the Heckewelder narrative. It was published in 1820, and is the foundation of the history of the upper Ohio valley, much of eastern Pennsylvania, and parts of Connecticut and New York.

This closing the business session of the board of directors, the following program was had:

READING OF PAPERS.

“The Wyandot Indians,” by Ray E. Merwin, of Pittsburg, was read by title.

“The Kansas Oil Producers against the Standard Oil Company; the Organization of the Kansas Oil Producers to Secure Legislation in 1905 for the Protection of the Kansas Oil Industry,” by William E. Connelley, of Topeka.

“Building of the Sedan Court-house,” by H. B. Kelly, of Topeka.

Upon motion of Judge John Martin, it was resolved that, in future, when the authors of papers appearing on the program cannot be present, the papers shall be read by title only. Also, that copies of all such papers be furnished the Society, and that they be published in the Collections of the society.

On motion of Capt. John G. Haskell, the board of directors adjourned.

KANSAS STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

THIRTY-FIRST ANNUAL MEETING.

DECEMBER 4, 1906.

The thirty-first annual meeting of the Kansas State Historical Society convened in the hall of the house of representatives, at two p. m., Tuesday, December 4, 1906.

The following members were present: Horace L. Moore, Floyd P. Baker, Fred. Wellhouse, Charles W. Smith, Percival G. Lowe, A. B. Whiting, Samuel F. Woolard, William J. Griffing, Chas. R. Green, James R. Mead, Elizabeth A. Johnson, Geo. W. Martin, J. C. Ruppenthal, Frank H. Hodder, William Elliott Richey, Wm. H. Isely, Clad Hamilton, Wm. E. Connelley, William H. Carruth, Lucy D. Kingman, Lucy S. Greene, F. D. Coburn, Geo. P. Morehouse, Geo. E. Cole, John MacDonald, Rev. Edwin Locke, Luther M. Nellis, Geo. W. Veale, Pat. H. Coney, Caroline Prentis, Dr. A. H. Thompson, Stephen Tripp, E. C. Little, Olive I. Royce, Zu Adams.

President Horace L. Moore presided.

Letters of regret were read by the secretary from H. E. Palmer, of Omaha, Neb.; Mrs. Emma K. Lea, of Blue Rapids; C. D. Dickson, of Quenemo; George Johnson, of Courtland; Prof. Alex. M. Wilcox, of Lawrence; S. W. Brewster, of Chanute; Mrs. W. E. Blankenship, secretary of the Prentis Reading Club, of Cawker City; and John D. Milliken, of McPherson.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The secretary then read his annual report, which, on motion of William E. Connelley, was adopted by the Society, without amendment. It is as follows:

The year 1906 has been of special interest to the Kansas State Historical Society. All the favors bestowed by the legislature of 1905 have materialized, which have in a variety of ways strengthened the Society, added to the importance of its work, and enthused its friends.

THE MEMBERSHIP.

The membership list shows a very gratifying condition. There are at this date, December 1, 160 annual members for the year ending June 30, 1907, and 30 life members, as against 128 annual and 15 life members one year ago. These figures show a gradual growth. The membership-fee fund had a balance June 30, 1906, of $98.40, and for the current year there has been collected $280, giving a total on hand of $378.40. The constitution says this fund shall be expended for "special historical research, or for the purchase of historical books, documents, or manuscripts," which can cover most anything in our line of work. At the annual meeting of 1905, a resolution was adopted directing the secretary to attend the meetings of the American Historical Association, and the librarian to attend the American Library Association, and that their expenses be paid from this fee fund. I am prepared to say that this is the most profitable way this fund may be used, since the legislative appropriation cannot be so diverted. I have attended two sessions of the American Historical Association, and I deem it of such benefit to this work that it is the purpose that Miss Zu Adams shall represent us at the session at Providence, R. I., during the coming holidays. One year ago I drew a warrant on this fund for $100 to pay my expenses to Baltimore and Washington, of which I returned $20. A warrant was drawn for $100 for the expenses of Miss Clara Francis to attend the Library Association, in June last, of which she returned $15. Miss Adams spent a week at Kansas City and Liberty, Mo., where she obtained many valuable papers, and copies of others, from pioneers. The sum of $25 was drawn for her expenses, of which she returned $15. I think it only fair to say in this connection that Col. Samuel F. Woolard has sent in since our last meeting twenty-six names for annual membership, and two for life membership.

PUBLIC ARCHIVES.

The department of archives established by the legislature of 1905 has made some progress—enough to show that if the idea is carried out completely it will be the most valuable feature of this historical work, because all material embraced is official. During the year ending June 30, 1906, a new record-book was opened up, entitled "Archives Accessions, No. 1." There have been classified, entered, and card-catalogued according to the subject, 5521 letters and papers. A list of this material, all of which comes from the adjutant-general's office, follows in this report the list of library and museum accessions.

Since the beginning of the current year we have received from Hon. J. R. Burrow, secretary of state, fully a wagon-load of the richest sort of material, much of it going back to territorial days. We have had no time thus far to give it any attention, but hope during the coming year to thoroughly examine and place the documents in like order with those secured from the adjutant-general's office. All this emphasizes the value of what the state might have had in the way of records if some general system of keeping manuscripts had been adopted in the beginning, which would have resulted in the preservation of all, and their final deposit in such an archives department. This is also emphasized now by the lack of room prevailing in the various state departments. There have been no contributions to the archives department from counties or municipal divisions. Two things have operated to deprive us of material from counties: First, many counties in very recent years have erected substantial, roomy and up-to-date court-houses, in which there is space for all old records; and second, the passage of the law concerning archives seems to have given value, even in crowded court-houses, to old things that for years were kicked around as so much rubbish. This, however, only emphasizes the necessity for this collection of archives to be at one central point, where the material may be classified, catalogued, and at all times accessible to students and to the public.

The contribution from the secretary of state's office embraces probably 10,000 manuscripts and record-books of great variety. There are the original proceedings of the Wyandotte constitutional convention, and the engrossed copy of the Wyandotte constitution, with autographs of the members attached; territorial executive minutes; census returns for the years 1855, 1860, 1865, 1870; military election returns for 1864; poll-book of the Twentieth Kansas voters at Honolulu, 1898; election returns, 1856-'80; lists of county officers, 1889-1900; impeachment proceedings against Charles Robinson, John W. Robinson, G. S. Hillyer, Josiah E. Hayes, and Theodosius Botkin; record-book of the Kansas Central Relief Committee, 1875; poll-book embracing a list of fraudulent voters at Oxford precinct, Johnson county, October 6, 1857, copied from the Cincinnati directory and upon which rested the question of free soil or slavery; a journal of office work in the surveyor-general's office at Lecompton, under L. A. McLean, 1856-'57, including accounts of various surveyors for services in Kansas and Nebraska; proceedings of the meeting organizing the Kickapoo Rangers, of Leavenworth county; census of the Shawnee Indians; list of claimants for losses incurred during the territorial troubles; a volume of correspondence concerning the apportionment in 1859; many letters concerning the disposal of the 500,000 acres of internal-improvement land; in short, original papers sufficient to make a fair history of an ordinary state.

The archives department has also received from F. D. Coburn, of the State Board of Agriculture, the census rolls of 1875, 1885, 1895, and 1905, including in all about 6300 books. These rolls give a detailed statement of every citizen. Those received from the secretary of state—1855, 1860, 1865, and 1870—give us a complete record, in this respect, for fifty years. From this department we have also received the awards of premiums for several state fairs during the early '70's, and also the account-books of the commission representing Kansas at the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia, in 1876.

Immediately upon the adjournment of the legislature of 1905, the Executive Council ordered a room in the cellar shelved and prepared for this archives collection, but it was later discovered that there were no funds available for this purpose.

In talking of this historical library the question of space invariably comes up. Our collection proper will some day need more room, because here accumulates or is gathered the result, the story of a very active people. It will cease to grow and stand still when our people quit doing things—a very improbable supposition. But for the archives department proper there are several acres of dry and comfortable space in the cellar, which, properly closed, floored, and shelved, will answer for some time to come. The material received from the adjutant-general, sorted up and put in order, occupies a space one foot high and three feet long, while that received from the secretary of state, after like arrangement, will occupy not over half the space it did in the vaults of that office. The interest and value of these papers render it of the utmost importance that they should be taken from places affected by political or frequent changes and placed in charge of trained librarians and cataloguers.

The value of these archives, documents and letters or statements made at the time is very pointedly illustrated by the following short story, by Daniel W. Wilder:

"Lest men suspect your tale untrue,
Keep probability in view."—Gay.

In the introduction to the "Biglow Papers," first series, Lowell speaks of persons who "have endeavored to glean the materials of revolutionary history from the lips of aged persons who took a part in the actual making of it, and, finding the manufacture profitable, continued the supply in an adequate proportion to the demand."

He then writes a dozen Yankee lines picturing "Old Joe" and his military experience. Lowell was born within walking distance of Bunker Hill and Lexington, and old soldiers were plentiful in his youthful days.

Old Joe when young Joe saw the English redcoats, led by Percy, hurrying to Lexington and Concord. Only saw them. But, the poet says, "the tale grew in wonder year by year, as every time he told it Joe drew near to the main fight, till, faded and grown gray, the original scene to bolder tints gave way," and Joe got into the fight. "Himself had fired and seen a red-coat drop." "Had Joe lived long enough," Lowell says, "vanquished Percy would have" completed the tale, "by hammering stone in Concord jail."

This fable teaches us what we may live to see; perhaps, indeed, what we have already seen: old wine in new papers; the history of Kansas from the lips of elderly persons who say they were in the fight, and know all about it.

The value and importance of the State Historical Society is this: Its library and collections contain thousands of newspapers, letters, documents and books made when the event occurred. These records are not "Old Joes." The printed paper remains; it does not lapse into garrulous senility.

THE BATTLE-FLAGS.

The steel and plate-glass case for the battle-flags, ordered by the legislature of 1905, was received about the 1st of September of this year. The flags turned over to the Society by Adj't.-Gen. J. W. F. Hughes in the month of June, 1905, were unrolled, dusted and placed in the case in proper order, and labeled as the law directed. There was much searching needed to get a proper inscription for each flag and regiment, indicating very plainly that the state of Kansas has been quite negligent in keeping a proper record of her soldiery. When the Twentieth Kansas returned from Manila the government gave them sufficient money to pay their fares home. In addition to this the state appropriated the sum of $42,835.62 for three special trains to convey them from San Francisco to Topeka, and also made special appropriations to the Union Pacific, the Rock Island and the Missouri Pacific to convey them from Topeka to their respective homes. Besides this a number of the members of that regiment who were left by accident in San Francisco received their individual fares home.

No doubt the same spirit and enthusiasm prevailed at the close of the civil war, and if it could have been expressed how proud we would have felt today. Surely the same spirit did then exist; but oh, how great the poverty! In 1865 the entire expenses of the state government were $154,768.66, while thirty-four years later we were able to lavish one-fourth as much in bringing one regiment home.

In preparing the labels for the flags, an attempt was made to add to the list of battles and services mentioned a tribute to each individual regiment in the form of a quotation from some writer of those days, but though all merited praise, the histories of several of the regiments were so meager as to lack this just due. The labels for the various flags and regiments are printed elsewhere in this report, and it is hoped they may revive recollections and suggest something for the tributeless regiments. The case is a beauty and the exhibition of the flags most inspiring. It is a handsome addition to the museum of the Society. In this connection it is deemed proper to give a list of the flags contributed to the Society in the past as relics. They are as follows:

Flag of company A, First Kansas regiment volunteer infantry; Frank H. Drenning, of Wathena, donor.

Silk flag presented by the ladies of the Leavenworth Turners' Society to Capt. Gustavus Zesch, company I, First Kansas regiment, 1861; Oscar Haberlein, donor.

Portion of flag of company M, Ninth Kansas cavalry, carried by the company through the civil war and at its close presented to their captain, John J. Price; Earle Engle, of Topeka, grandson of Captain Price, donor.

Remains of a silk flag made by the ladies of Junction City in the spring of 1861, and presented by donor to company B, Second Kansas regiment; was in the battle of Wilson Creek; Mrs. Josephine Blakely Martin, donor.

Flag said to be the first raised over a schoolhouse in Kansas, in Kennedy valley, Douglas county, four miles southwest of Lawrence, March 17, 1874; Edmund Stanley, Wichita, donor.

Confederate flag captured at Iatan, Mo., June 3, 1861, by twelve members of the Elwood Guards, First Kansas regiment; Frank M. Tracy, donor.

Confederate flag captured by the First Kansas regiment at Austin, Mo., 1861; A. D. Searle, donor.

Confederate flag captured in southwestern Missouri or northeastern Arkansas during the war, by Col. John Ritchie, donor.

Facsimile of the flag nailed to the raft upon which the Rev. Pardee Butler was shipped from Atchison down the Missouri river in 1855; Charles M. Leland, of Denver, donor.

A "border russian" flag, five broad stripes, three white and two red, 5x12 feet, with the motto, "Enforce the Laws"; its origin and how it came into the hands of the free-state party are unknown; James B. Abbott, donor.

The "Lone Star" flag of South Carolina, captured by free-state men under Col. James A. Harvey, at Slough creek, Jefferson county, September 11, 1856; Col. E. B. Whitman, Cambridge, Mass., donor. This flag floated over the Eldridge House, Lawrence, and the "rifle-pits of the abolitionists," May 21, 1856, according to the claims of the Palmetto Rifles, who brought it from Charleston to Kansas.

Philippine flag, captured by company B, Twentieth Kansas, on the outskirts of Manila, in the engagement in which Lieut. Alfred C. Alford was killed, February 7, 1899. There were twenty-nine dead Filipinos near by, and the flag was wrapped around the body of their commander; donated to the Society by Lieut. J. R. Whisner and Private Fred D. Heisler, January 16, 1900.

The last two are of the most historic significance, illustrating the wonderful leap in events in forty-three years.

The Squatter Sovereign (Atchison), first column, editorial page, May 27, 1856, said: "Before the city of Lawrence was fairly subjugated the flag of the Atchison company was planted upon the rifle-pit of the enemy. It was then carried by its brave bearer and stationed upon the Herald of Freedom printing-office, and from thence to the large hotel and fortress of the Yankees, where it proudly waived until the artillery commenced battering down the building." Alongside of this Lone Star flag, representing the subjugation of Lawrence, the Philippine flag, captured by a Kansas company of soldiers, when a Lawrence boy sacrificed his life, is a significant reminder of the changed conditions since the Kansas conflict.

OUR FIRST CENTENNIAL.

The celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the visit of Lieut. Zebulon M. Pike to Republic county and the raising of the flag of the United States for the first time over the region now known as Kansas and Colorado was a great success in patriotic enthusiasm, large attendance, and good management. Four days were observed—Wednesday, the 26th of September, 1906, as Woman's day, in charge of the Woman's Kansas Day Club; Thursday, the 27th, in charge of the State Historical Society; Friday, the 28th, was given to the Grand Army of the Republic; and Saturday, the 29th, was known as Pike's day. Mrs. E. W. Hoch, Mrs. Noble L. Prentis, Mrs. Charles E. Adams, of Superior, Neb., ex-president of the National Woman's Relief Corps; Mrs. Albert H. Horton, of the Kansas Daughters of the Revolution; Mrs. Lee Monroe, representing the Equal Suffrage Association; Mrs. Eva M. Murphy, of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union; Mrs. Elma B. Dalton, national president of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, and Mrs. Cora G. Lewis, of the Woman's Kansas Day Club, gave inspiring papers along various lines of woman's work in developing the state of Kansas, each being of historical value.

John B. Dunbar, of Bloomfield, N. J., contributed a paper entitled "The White Man's Foot in Kansas"; James R. Mead, "The Pawnees as I Knew Them"; William E. Connelley, "Characters and Incidents of the Plains"; Rev. J. A. Sutton, "Providence in History," and Geo. W. Martin, "The First Two Years of Kansas."

Capt. Patrick H. Coney, department commander of Kansas, on the third day, spoke of "The Grand Army of the Republic—its Attainments and its Mission." Col. Charles E. Adams, of Superior, Neb., gave an address on "Patriotism," and Congressman William A. Calderhead spoke of the "Old Soldier." By order of the state superintendent of schools, Hon. I. L. Dayhoff, each of the public schools of Kansas was directed to devote one hour of this Friday afternoon to the story of "Pike and the Flag," 300,000 school children, in every city and township in Kansas, thus acting in unison with the services at Pawnee village.

The village and the picnic grounds are accessible only by wagon travel, and, considering this, attendance on Pike's day, Saturday, the 29th, was very large and beyond all expectations. Gov. E. W. Hoch made an address on "This Country of Ours," and Gomer T. Davies gave some interesting local reminiscences. United States Senator Chester I. Long enjoyed the interesting distinction of having made an address on the 28th in Colorado Springs upon the occasion of the celebration of the discovery of the peak, and the next day addressing the Kansas people who were celebrating the raising of the flag. David Overmyer and William A. Harris were to have been there, according to the original purpose, but circumstances interfered. Three batteries of artillery were present, in charge of Captain Mott, and, on the 29th, a salute was given the governor, and the flag was raised on Pike's village site, within a few rods of the monument, with military honors. The celebration was in all respects a grand affair, worthy of the incident which inspired and suggested it. Republic City thereby has contributed by the liberality, enthusiasm and good management of her people a splendid chapter to Kansas history.

The great audience on the 29th adopted the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, The supreme glory of the state is the sacred spot where the flag is first exalted in the name of our country; and

"WHEREAS, We believe the site of the Pawnee village, being the spot where Lieutenant Pike first raised the stars and stripes, should be held in reverence in the hearts of every loyal Kansan: therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we, the people assembled to commemorate the first centennial anniversary of the removal of the Spanish flag from the soil of the United States, hereby express to Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson our sincere appreciation and loving gratitude for preserving for us and our children the place where our beloved flag was first raised. We believe the lowering of the flag of one nation and the establishment of the sovereignty of another, in the name of peace, and without bloodshed, to be one of the things that consecrate our state, and light the way to the universal peace which is the hope of Christian civilization.

"Resolved, That Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson have given us the most sacred spot on Kansas soil, the site of the Pawnee village, now marked by the state with a granite monument in honor of Zebulon M. Pike.

"And be it further resolved, That it is our privilege on this memorable occasion to publicly tender to Mr. and Mrs. Johnson the tribute of our love and gratitude. —MRS. J. M. LEWIS, JR., Chairman."

ARCHEOLOGICAL.

The Society now holds a membership in the Topeka Circle of the American Archeological Institute, the expense, ten dollars, having been paid out of our book fund. Archeology is a very important feature of the work of this Society, but it has been greatly neglected because of want of general interest. There are several friends scattered about the state who take an interest in the stone implements and pottery with which our prairies abound, indicating a previous settlement and history; but officially and generally our people have smiled as scholars and students have shipped out loads of this material to enrich Eastern institutions and collections. It is generally understood that the best specimens of extinct animals to be found anywhere have been taken from counties in western Kansas, contiguous to the head waters of the Smoky Hill river. Twenty-five and thirty years ago that country was literally plowed up by students of Eastern institutions. By the time Western people are old enough to appreciate the value of these relics of a bygone age our fields will be stripped. In the beginning of our organized existence there should have been laws passed governing and protecting such explorations, forbidding the shipment out of the state of such material. In consideration of our membership, we are now entitled to the current publications of the American Archeological Institute. It is to be hoped that the organization may awaken a proper interest in the subject.

FIRST WHITE CHILDREN BORN IN KANSAS.

The first children of pure white blood born in what is now Kansas is an item of such interest that it makes the circuit of the state press three or four times a year. The reference work called for in editing the Methodist Mission article in our ninth volume of Collections brought the first white native-born Kansans very vividly to mind. The Montana Historical Society recently published the names of all the settlers in that state during the winter of 1862-'63, but that would be impracticable for any of the early years after the opening of Kansas to settlement, because of the agitation and confusion characterizing our beginning. We have, however, lists of names on census and election rolls, and in other forms, many of which can yet be recognized as bona fide settlers; but the day will come when it will be difficult to determine who remained and who tired and moved on. This list of children will always be of interest, and it is given here, not as perfect, but very nearly so. There were many employees about government posts, so that there may still be other children born within our borders whom we have been unable to reach; but we have not concluded the search. The following were born in pre-territorial days:

Hiero T. Wilson married Elizabeth C. Hogan September 28, 1847; had three children born at Fort Scott. Their names, in order of birth, were: Virginia Taylor, wife of William R. Robinson; Elizabeth Clay, wife of Charles W. Goodlander; and Fannie Webster, wife of T. F. Robley.

The above list was made up by correspondence and a search through the manuscripts and publications of the Historical Society, and at times we have felt it to be comparatively full and correct. After reading the last proof on the list, judge our surprise on turning over the leaves of the census returns of 1860, recently acquired with the archives from the secretary of state's office, to find, in a hasty search through the counties of Shawnee, Woodson, McGee, and Riley, at least forty additional children born in Kansas prior to 1854. One of these, grown to manhood, a farmer, of Pleasant Grove post-office, Woodson county, says he was born in Kansas "forty years ago," making his birth date 1820. Who could his parents have been? Were they traders? Who was this white woman who came into the territory at least seven years before Mrs. Daniel Morgan Boone, the mother of Napoleon, the heretofore reputed first white Kansan, born at the old Kaw agency, August 22, 1828? James Murphy's contemporaries were the twenty-three half-breed Kaw children especially provided for, in the treaty of 1825, with a square mile each of land in the fertile Kansas bottoms.

W. F. Osborn, also of Woodson county, says he was born in Kansas thirty-three years before, making his birth year 1827. His son Robert, also a Kansan, was born in 1843. Mrs. Osborn's name is given as Mary, a native of Indiana.

THE SANTA FE TRAIL.

The task of marking the Santa Fe trail has at last made a start. There were many differences, causing the delay, the principal one being the style of material. A red granite Oklahoma boulder of irregular form, ranging from 800 to 1000 pounds each, was finally agreed upon by the Daughters of the American Revolution, and a contract made for seventy stones. Winter weather has practically stopped the work until spring, when it can be pushed rapidly, and celebrations and ceremonies be possible.

Besides the $1000 given the Daughters by the legislature for this purpose, they secured from the school children a sum, of which they had on hand $583.63 when they contracted for the markers. This made a total marker fund of $1583.63. The markers cost $16 each, to which was added an estimate of $4 for setting each stone, making a total cost of $20, or $1400 for the seventy. Johnson county has been supplied with five markers; Douglas county, four; Rice county, four; Marion county, four; Finney county four; and Wabaunsee county, one. The Santa Fe Railway Company delivers the markers free of cost. Those in Johnson and Douglas have been set at prominent points on the road, on a concrete foundation two or three feet deep, without cost to the Daughters. Other counties have promised to do the same; so that it looks as though there will be enough of the fund left to enable four markers to be placed in each of the twenty-one counties through which the trail passes. In addition to the five granite markers furnished from this source, Johnson county old settlers indulged in two additional markers, to which were attached very handsome bronze tablets, similar to the one used by Kansas City, Mo. Friends along the trail are expected to select the locations for the markers, and report the quarter, section, township and range of each location, with any incident pertaining to the site selected. The act making the appropriation for the markers made the regent of the Daughters, Mrs. Wm. E. Stanley, and the secretary of the State Historical Society responsible for its expenditure.

William H. Simpson, advertising manager of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, writes: "It is our intention to have suitable markers or signs put up at various places where the old Santa Fe trail either crosses our present railroad line or runs near it. A start will be made this spring."

IMPORTANT ACCESSIONS.

The Society has received during the year 1906 many pictures, busts, tablets and relics of interesting and significant historical value. A very rich bronze tablet from the mechanical engineers of the United States, commemorating the efforts and sacrifice of Edward Grafstrom in the flood of 1903, recalls that terrible disaster, and is a fitting tribute to one who gave his life that others might live. An interesting service was held in the hall of the house of representatives on the occasion of placing the memorial in the state's collection, when speeches were made by Gov. E. W. Hoch and Hon. James A. Troutman, and delightful music was rendered. The speeches are reported in full in the ninth volume of Collections. A very practical reminder of the flood appears also in a clock from the business place of J. A. Johnson, Union avenue, Kansas City, which shows the minute, hour, day, month and year when the water of the flood reached the clock on the wall at a height of six feet and ten inches, and stopped the pendulum. The clock would not work afterwards. Mrs. Isabella B. Hinton has contributed a bust of her husband, Col. Richard J. Hinton, which is a perfect likeness. We also have in place the handsome bronze bust of Daniel W. Wilder, contributed by Eugene F. Ware. J. W. Fisher, now of East Radford, Va., has deposited a very rare collection of Indian trappings, among them a war bonnet, for which he refused $200; also the buffalo robe, in perfect order, now a very rare relic of the life which once swarmed these prairies, which his father, Rev. H. D. Fisher, used for thirty-five years on the plains of Kansas. Mrs. W. H. Sears has contributed a crayon picture of Lawrence D. Bailey, a territorial pioneer, one of the first associate justices, the first president of the Kansas State Board of Agriculture, the founder of Lyndon, an early and prime mover in agricultural fairs, and an all-around useful man. The Woman's Kansas Day Club has furnished a very rich painting of Mrs. Sara T. D. Robinson, the widow of the first governor. The Frank C. Armstrong camp of United Spanish War Veterans has contributed to our picture gallery a pastel picture of Maj. Frank C. Armstrong, surgeon of the Twenty-first Kansas, and later surgeon Thirty-second United States volunteers. He died in the service at Manila. There are many minor objects, which will be found in detail in the list of accessions, which add much to the interest of this collection.

THE NINTH VOLUME.

During the past year we have issued the ninth volume of Historical Collections. Four thousand copies were printed. The law authorizes the printing of this publication every two years, and also of a biennial report showing our business transactions, accessions, current newspaper list, etc. There are many papers in the ninth volume of special interest. There is a growing demand for these books, an appreciable gain in the value of the topics, a wider range of investigation and labor, and a very pleased and creditable willingness on the part of many of our citizens to do this sort of work for the Society and the public. The sketches of the state senate of 1865-'66 and of the state administrations have attracted the attention of those engaged in public life, and from a vague idea that historical work is something that must be tolerated, they know not why, they have awakened to a lively interest in history. I think the result will be a conversion to the idea that current operations are history, and that all are participants. We have promises of papers covering the administrations of Samuel J. Crawford, John A. Martin, E. N. Morrill, John W. Leedy, W. E. Stanley, and W. J. Bailey. Historians for the others will be sought. The trouble is not to find friends of the various governors, but to find a person willing and competent to undertake the task.

There are now on hand a very few copies of volume 7, and about 400 copies each of volumes 6 and 8. All preceding volume 6 are out of print and impossible to be had; and 6 and 8 will be gone before spring. There is a constant call for back volumes and full sets.

DEMAND FOR STATE PUBLICATIONS.

There is a constant demand from libraries and schools in all parts of the country, as well as from local sources, for Kansas books from our duplicate room. From July 1, 1904, to June 30, 1906, we have shipped out 4440 volumes. There has been an unusual call the past year for a report on Kansas gas. We have inquiries every week for back numbers of the Historical Collections to complete sets, and from special interests in other localities desiring sets of publications concerning like interests in Kansas. There are practically no publications of the state prior to 1880 to be had, and the irregular and apparently thoughtless orders for printing public documents of late years have given us a wasteful number of some and an equally disappointing shortage of others. There are constant and growing needs for public documents, not only for business and public reference, but oftentimes as text-books. A resolution fixing the number of Senate and House Journals for 1905 was amended by a member who did not know what he was doing, providing 500 copies of each. The result is, many persons or places entitled to these journals under the law are without them to-day, and this Society is compelled to hide the copies in its possession. The same trouble was caused in a like manner concerning the fourteenth biennial report of this Society. During the past year we have had scores of calls for the list of Kansas newspapers that we could not meet.

THE USE OF PUBLIC DOCUMENTS AND LIBRARIES.

There is evidently an increased interest in public documents, but there is some question in my mind whether this applies in Kansas to an appreciable extent. More attention should be given to the published reports of the various state departments. The law should provide for their distribution among the local libraries, and the preservation of these books should be carefully guarded. The reports of every officer should be printed in time to be mailed to the senators and representatives before they leave home, so that the business of the state may be carefully considered. Instead of being pushed aside as useless they should be made useful. The state loses much by inattention to these published reports. A year or so ago it was alleged editorially by the New York Independent that public libraries in the United States "are useful to the women and children, but not so much to the men." The writer argues that a reference library, rather than a reading library, is best suited to masculine minds—"a library primarily composed of books which nobody wants on his own shelves, but which anybody is liable to need some time." Women, he says, have become our leisure class, in the technical sense of the term, by the transference of household industries to the factory, and "it is very gratifying to see how generally they are spending the time thus gained in intellectual effort." And children use the libraries, because they are trained in the public schools to do so. "But the number of men who take books out of the town library or go to it for reference is very small." The reasons for this, says the Independent, are two: "First, the men have come to think that there is nothing in the library for them; and, second, they are usually right in thinking so." The Independent said further:

"Women use books as playthings; men as tools. When a woman reads a serious book it is usually to improve her mind; a man generally thinks that there are many other things which need improving more than his mind, and he reads to find out how to do it. Bacon, whose tabloid wisdom is popular because it is so convenient to carry in the vest pocket of one's memory, says: 'Studies serve for delight, for ornament, and for ability.' Of these motives the first and the second are more apt to be dominant with women and the third with men. That is why the studious man looks into more books and reads fewer than the studious woman. For information in itself, apart from any apparent use, man has little liking. He may not be more practical, but he is more objective than woman."

The writer thinks that the large predominance of women in library work and management has tended to increase the feminization of the public libraries. In consequence, "the town library is to be classed rather with municipal amusements, like the band playing in the park on summer evenings and the fireworks on the Fourth, than with public utilities." And he offers the following suggestions toward extending its usefulness:

"When the farmer drops in to see what is the red bug that is eating his box-elder trees and what to do for it, or, rather, against it; when the editor telephones over for a map of Port Arthur for the afternoon edition; when the orator for 'Pioneer day' finds there anecdotes of the early history of the town; when the boy who wants to study electrical engineering in his odd hours does not have to send twenty-five dollars to a correspondence school for books the library ought to supply; when the village inventor can learn how many times before his non-refillable bottle has been patented; when the grocer's clerk comes over to see what brands of baking-powder contain alum; when the mechanic can find out what horse-power he can get from a windmill above his shop; when the political junta adjourns from the drug-store to the library to see how much McKinley ran ahead of his ticket in 1896 in the fifth congressional district; when the young married couple look over the colored plates of a volume on the house furnishings a l'art nouveau; when the labor leader comes in to look up English laws on the financial responsibility of trades-unions; when the mayor sends in for all the books on the municipal ownership of electric-light plants; when the clerk of the district court discovers in the files of the local paper an advertisement of a dissolution of partnership ten years ago—then we can be sure that Andrew Carnegie has not wasted his money."

DATE OF MEETING.

I doubt if everybody is satisfied with the date of our annual meeting. Can any one suggest a date that would be more satisfactory to a greater number. We ought to have a better attendance from the distant parts of the state, but we have no mileage or per diem for the purpose. The Society in its duty of historical collection makes many friends in all parts of the state, but it is hardly reasonable to expect an expenditure on their part of ten or twenty dollars in railroad fare and hotel bills solely to attend a meeting. This attendance is a labor of love; there is no pecuniary benefit in it to any one; and the cleverness and promptness with which our citizens respond with free services in investigations and literary work are exceedingly gratifying, giving the Society and the state, in its publications, the highest standing abroad. It has been suggested that the annual meeting be held in the summer or fall, as a more clement season for the people at a distance. As our fiscal year closes June 30, the annual reports could be prepared any time after that date. Another suggestion is that the date of the meeting be left open, to be fixed by the executive committee, so that it might be called within a day or so of some other gathering—that those desiring can attend both with the one expense. A regular increase in membership shows that many appreciate our work, and that, if they cannot be with us in annual meetings, they have pride in a connection with the Kansas State Historical Society.

HISTORICAL AND LIBRARY MEETINGS.

The American Library Association met at Narragansett Pier, R. I., June 29 to July 6, 1906. This meeting was attended by prominent librarians from all over the United States, and was full of valuable information along library lines. The National Association of State Libraries, which meets as a section of the American Library Association, was especially helpful, the line of library work being in keeping with our own. The membership of this association is comparatively small; therefore more time is given to questions and discussion and a better knowledge is gained of what other historical and state libraries are doing. At these meetings one comes in contact with such men as Melvil Dewey, of New York; Montgomery, of Pennsylvania; Thwaites and Bradley, of Wisconsin, and Henry, of Indiana. It was a great satisfaction to find that the Kansas historical library was keeping abreast of the newer library methods and could be favorably compared to historical libraries of much longer life. Our Society holds a membership in the American Library Association. Miss Zu Adams being unable to attend, Miss Clara Francis attended, and, in company with Miss Elva Clarke, of the State Normal, represented Kansas.

Two members of the Society's library force attended the sixth annual meeting of the Kansas Library Association, at Lawrence, October 25 and 26. It was the most successful meeting yet held, both in point of attendance, which reached forty, and in general interest. The most western library represented was that at Plainville, and the most southern, Fort Scott. The feature of the meeting which aroused special interest was the two minutes' verbal report of the year's work in each library, embracing statistics concerning accessions, bequests, housing, cataloguing, loaning, etc., with a statement of any new feature of library work or phase arising from local conditions. These interchanges of practical experiences and the mingling of workers in a common interest cannot fail to widen the horizon of each.

THE HELP OF WOMEN.

The Woman's Kansas Day Club, organized January 29, 1906, promises to be a valuable auxiliary in the work of the Kansas State Historical Society. It is their aim to celebrate the natal day of Kansas from a patriotic standpoint solely, and to seek due recognition of the services of woman in making the state—a very laudable purpose. All must concede that the pioneer women of Kansas have not had the credit due their heroic self-sacrifices in taming these prairies, to say nothing of the white and red savages who then made frontier life such a burden. At their first meeting they gave this Society a painting of Sara T. D. Robinson, and for the year just closing they gave much thought and labor toward making the Pike centennial celebration a great success. It was their idea of enlisting the school children of the state in the flag celebration. It is certain that the women of the state are not suitably represented in the picture gallery of the Society. It is a strange idea that they are not equally entitled with the men, and so prevalent is this idea that the picture of a woman attracts more than usual attention and talk. I sincerely hope that this club will always be a live success.

NEWSPAPER FILES.

Our weekly newspaper files are bound up to the end of the year 1905. They are nicely cared for in the gable at the north end of the fourth floor of the capitol building. The legislature of 1905 gave money to shelve the room, which has been done. There are now two years of newspapers in this north gable, with room for about four years more.

JOHN GUTHRIE.

The Society lost most seriously in the death of Judge John Guthrie, July 1, 1906. He came to Kansas in 1865. He is a fair sample of the busy and useful citizen who always had an interest in the work of the State Historical Society, and gave it much time and labor. He was a member of the board of directors from 1892 and treasurer of the Society from 1894 until his death. He served in the house of representatives in 1868, 1869, and 1870; as presidential elector in 1872; from 1880 to 1884, as county attorney of Shawnee county; from 1884 to 1892, as judge of the district court of Shawnee county, and was eight years postmaster of the city of Topeka. He was honored as department commander of the Grand Army, and as grand master of the Masonic fraternity. The capital city of the new state of Oklahoma bears his name. Judge John Martin has a sketch of Judge Guthrie, which will be added to the records of this Society in a short time.

The secretary cheerfully commends the efficient and faithful services of all in the Society's employ, and the entire force acknowledges the patience and help of the members and other friends interested in the work.

GEO. W. MARTIN, Secretary.

The financial report of the Society, embracing the receipts and expenditures from membership fees for the year ending June 30, 1906, was read by the secretary and accepted, as follows:

Address of Judge L. Stillwell, at Erie, November 24, 1904, on the occasion of the dedication of the new court-house of Neosho county.

"The Beginning of the Old Kansas Pacific Railway," by John D. Cruise, of Kansas City.

The Rev. Edwin Locke offered the following amendment to the constitution:

V. The annual meeting of the Society shall be held in Topeka on such day as may be designated by the executive committee; and those members, not less than ten, who meet at any annual or special meeting of the Society upon the call of the board of directors shall be a quorum for the transaction of business.

Under the constitution, this proposition to amend goes over until the next meeting.

Geo. E. Cole, after stating his attitude regarding the expenditure of state money during his service as state auditor, and further remarking that the motion he was about to make was on his own initiative, offered a resolution favoring an increase in the salary of the secretary of the Society.

Professor Carruth asked that the resolution be amended by the addition of the following words: "and also that a corresponding raise be made in the salaries of the employees." The amendment, being accepted by Mr. Cole, and the resolution amended by James R. Mead, was adopted, as follows.

WHEREAS, The State Historical Society and its secretary are engaged in preserving and building up a collection of almost inestimable value to the state; and

WHEREAS, The work of this department is as important and responsible as that of various departments of the state government whose heads receive a salary of at least $2500 each; and

WHEREAS, This Society requires the time and talents of a man at its head possessing peculiar ability, knowledge of Kansas history, and love of the work, making his services of a high order and value: therefore,

Resolved, That the coming legislature be requested to appropriate for the annual salary of the secretary of the State Historical Society the sum of $2500, and also that a corresponding raise be made in the salaries of the employees.

Colonel Moore invited the attention of the Society to some pamphlets issued by the United States Census Bureau on "Drafts of Laws and Forms of Certificates for the Registration of Births and Deaths," and "A Practical Example of Cooperative Census Methods as Applied to the State of Pennsylvania." He hoped that the members would call the attention of their senators and representatives in the legislature to these official recommendations, and urge the adoption of such methods for the preservation of the Kansas vital statistics.

On motion of Mr. Connelley, the meeting adjourned.

THIRTY-FIRST ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Immediately upon the adjournment of the annual meeting of the Society, the thirty-first annual meeting of the board of directors met in Representative hall, and were called to order by President Moore.

Mr. Martin offered the names of Col. Lewis E. Dougherty and his brother, O'Fallon Dougherty, of Liberty, Mo., for corresponding members of the Society. Percival G. Lowe seconded the motion in a tribute to the high character of these two pioneer gentlemen of western Missouri, whose father, Maj. John Dougherty, he also personally knew.

Mr. Joseph S. Chick, of Kansas City, Mo., was also nominated by Mr. Martin for corresponding membership, in acknowledgment of his services to the Society in courteously replying to the many inquiries from this office in relation to preterritorial persons and places in Kansas.

Hon. D. C. Kilbourne, clerk of the supreme court, of East Litchfield, Conn., historian and lawyer, was nominated by Mr. C. R. Green, of Lyndon.

Professor Carruth proposed the name of Wm. J. Chapman, B. D., Ph. D., connected with the library of Hartford (Conn.) Theological Seminary, who has recently prepared for filing with the Society a very scholarly and thorough history of the Wakefield colony, of Clay county, illustrated with skilfully drawn maps, Mr. Chapman's family having come to Kansas in the early '70's with that emigration from England.

The gentlemen so nominated for corresponding members were also elected.

The meeting then adjourned.

THE BATTLE-FLAGS OF KANSAS.

The legislature of 1905 passed an act transferring to the museum of the State Historical Society the regimental flags and guidons of the various regiments raised by Kansas for service in the civil and Spanish-American wars, and provided a very handsome case for their exhibition. Chapter 59, page 93, of the Session Laws of 1905, is as follows :

AN ACT to provide for the preservation of the battle-flags of the state of Kansas.

WHEREAS, The battle-flags of the state of Kansas, some sixty in number, have been for forty years without proper care, subject to moth and dust, and inaccessible to the public: therefore,

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Kansas:

SECTION 1. That the sum of one thousand dollars, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated, to be expended upon proper vouchers by the Executive Council, in providing steel cases, with plate-glass fronts and backs, as near air-tight as practicable, in which to preserve and expose to the public the various regimental and other battle-flags carried by Kansas troops; and that the same be added to the museum of the State Historical Society.

SEC. 2. The adjutant-general is hereby required to furnish a designation for each flag, giving number of regiment, names of battles, and location of service, and that each flag be so labeled.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its publication in the statute-book.

Approved March 4, 1905.

In accordance with this act cards were printed and attached to each flag or guidon, and where there was no flag, proper mention of the regiment or organization, on a card, was placed in numerical order. In the Session Laws of 1866, chapter 6, page 27, is found an appropriation made to the adjutant-general's office of $150 for painting inscriptions on the flags. Many of the flags still bear in large gilt letters the names of the battles in which their regiments participated. In the case of the Second Kansas cavalry some battles appear on the flag fought before the regiment was organized, and which properly belong to the flag of the Second Kansas Infantry, a three months' regiment. As three companies of the infantry regiment were afterwards incorporated into the cavalry regiment, and the same colonel served in both, it is possible that the flag was carried by both regiments. We would be glad to know. In the case of the Tenth regiment also, which was made up from the Third and Fourth regiments, at least one affair, that of Osceola, Mo., should have been credited to the two original regiments. Gathered from a variety of sources a sketch of each organization was prepared, as follows:

The First was organized at Fort Leavenworth, June 4, 1861, and mustered out June 17, 1864, though its veteran companies continued in service in the South to the close of the war, being mustered out at Little Rock, Ark., August 30, 1865. This regiment lost by death 225 men. Its colonels were George W. Deitzler and William Y. Roberts.

In the battle of Wilson's Creek the First regiment lost 51 per cent. of those engaged, in killed and wounded. In an article in the Century Magazine for May, 1888, entitled "The Chances of Being Hit in Battle," this is said to be remarkable for a three months' regiment—their first smell of powder.

"At the time of this battle (Springfield or Wilson's Creek) the First regiment had been only two months in the service. Yet its record abundantly proves that green Kansas regiments can fight in a manner of which veterans need not be ashamed. The opinion of an old regular officer on this subject is worthy of note. Major Sturgis, during one of the hardest struggles of the battle, remarked to General Lyon: 'These Kansas boys are doing the best fighting that I have ever witnessed.' The same officer, after having passed through many of the bloodiest battles of the war, said that, 'for downright, hard, persistent fighting, Wilson's Creek beat them all.'

"During the term of service of the First Kansas, its movements, marches, etc., it made an aggregate of over 6000 miles actually traveled, through portions of six rebel states, not including Missouri and Kentucky."—Kan. Adj. Gen. Mil. Hist'y of Kan. Regt's, pp. 9, 10.

SECOND KANSAS REGIMENT, INFANTRY, 1861.

Battle on Flag.

Springfield.

Memorandum Pinned on Flag.

This was the only federal flag on the battle-field when Gen. Nathaniel Lyon was killed. It belonged to company H, Second regiment, Kansas volunteer infantry. The brave Thomas Miller was killed and two other members of the company were wounded while carrying this grand old flag, but it was finally brought from the field as you see it—blood-stained, bullet-marked, tattered, and torn. Wilson's Creek, August 10, 1861.

The banner belonging to this Second infantry also has the word "Springfield" painted on it.

The Second regiment of Kansas volunteer infantry was organized at Lawrence, and mustered at Kansas City, Mo., June 20, 1861, for three months' service. It took part in the following battles in Missouri: Forsythe, July 22; Dug Springs, August 2; Wilson's Creek, August 10; Paris, September 2; Shelbina and Iatan, September 4, 1861. It was mustered out at Leavenworth October 31, 1861. Robert B. Mitchell, colonel. "The Second regiment was the last one to leave the field (Wilson's Creek), and the only regiment which kept its line and organization unbroken from the first to the last of the fight, which lasted about six hours."—Kan. Adj. Gen., Mil. Hist'y of Kan. Regt's, p. 14.

This regiment began organization in October, 1861, as the Twelfth Kansas, was later changed to the Ninth, and completed its organization as the Second Kansas cavalry, March 27, 1862. It was mustered out at Fort Gibson, C. N., June 22, 1865. G, H and I companies had formerly belonged to the Second Kansas volunteer infantry. The colonel of the regiment was Robert B. Mitchell, who, with other officers of the Second infantry, were transferred to the new regiment. The first engagement of any portion of this regiment was a skirmish at Little Santa Fe, Mo., March 24, 1862. This regiment lost by death 173 men.

"Thus is closed this brief history of the Second Kansas cavalry—a regiment which did as much hard service and as good fighting as any other cavalry organization west of the Mississippi; a regiment which was noted for being always in the front, and ever ready for action; which furnished a larger clerical force for the staff departments, and more than its proportion of acting staff officers, and whose list of promotions from the ranks is in excess of any other Kansas organization, and the only cavalry regiment in the West that captured a battery."—Kan. Adj. Gen. Mil. Hist'y of Kan. Regt's, p. 66.

THIRD AND FOURTH REGIMENTS.

Consolidated with Tenth regiment.

No Flags.

The Third and Fourth Kansas volunteer regiments were raised in the summer of 1861, July and August, but their organizations were never fully completed. They, together with the Fifth Kansas cavalry, constituted what was then known as "Lane's Brigade." Being regiments of mixed arms, infantry, cavalry, and artillery, the War Department ordered their reorganization, which was done by the infantry companies of the two regiments reorganizing as the Tenth Kansas infantry, in February and April, 1862, the cavalry companies being transferred to the Fifth, Sixth and Ninth Kansas cavalry regiments, and the artillery companies consolidating in the First Kansas battery. The colonels of the regiments were James Montgomery and William Weer, respectively. Their service was the protection of the Kansas border. September 23, 1861, Lane's Brigade destroyed the major portion of the town of Osceola, Mo., but the first flag of the Tenth regiment given below, bears the name "Osceola."

The Fifth Kansas cavalry was organized in July, 1861, and lost its colonel, H. P. Johnson, in a skirmish with Price at Morristown, Mo., September 17. It remained on the Missouri and Kansas border until the spring of 1862, when it joined the army of the Southwest, at Helena, Ark. Most of the companies of the regiment remained in that state until the termination of the war. Several companies of the regiment, their term of service having expired, were mustered out at Leavenworth in September, 1864, but the reenlisted veterans closed their service at Helena, June 22, 1865. The colonels were Hampton P. Johnson and Powell Clayton. This regiment lost by death 274 men.

Three companies of this regiment were organized as home guards at Fort Scott, in July, 1861; a regimental organization was made with eight companies September 9 following, and finally perfected in the late spring of 1862. The regiment was mustered out at Leavenworth, August 11, 1865. William R. Judson, colonel. This regiment lost by death 218 men.

"Although but few reports of engagements appear in the history, it will be seen by reference to tabular statements, contained in volume 1 of adjutant general's report, that Kansas lost a greater number of men killed in action and died of wounds, in proportion to the number of troops furnished, than any other loyal state, the per cent. being over sixty-one per thousand, while the Sixth lost a greater number than any other cavalry regiment of Kansas troops, its loss being nearly eighty per thousand of the whole number enlisted." —Kan. Adj. Gen. Mil. Hist'y of Kan. Regt's, 1870, p. 150.

This regiment was mustered in at Fort Leavenworth October 28, 1861, and mustered out at the same place September 30, 1865. The colonels were Charles R. Jennison, Albert L. Lee, and Thomas P. Herrick. This regiment lost by death 162 men.

"On the 1st of January, 1864, while the regiment was bivouacked near La Grange, Tenn., without any shelter to protect the men from the sleet and cold, and many of them suffering severely from frozen feet, notwithstanding the suffering over four-fifths of the Seventh Kansas reenlisted as veteran volunteers, the first to reenlist in the district of west Tennessee.

"The aggregate distance marched, as shown by the records of the regiment, exclusive of the distance traveled on transports and by rail, is 12,050 miles—a no inconsiderable journey when it will be remembered how many weary miles were traveled beneath a scorching Southern sun or through the winter's rain and sleet." —Kan. Total miles marched, 10,750. Largest regimental strength at any one time, March, 1862. Then 877 officers and men, 656 of whom were present for duty. Mustered out January 9, 1866,* with 19 commissioned officers and 177 enlisted men—196 officers and men. This regiment lost by death 222 men.

In an article in the Century for May, 1888, page 93, entitled "The Chances of Being Hit in Battle," the Eighth Kansas regiment is credited with a loss at the battle of Chickamauga, in killed and wounded, of 54 per cent. of those engaged. The Twenty-fifth Massachusetts lost 71 per cent. at Cold Harbor, and the Thirty-second Iowa lost 50 per cent. at Pleasant Hill, La. The highest Confederate loss given was 82 per cent., by the First Texas, at Antietam.

"The gleam of its bayonets was seen from Fort Laramie, Neb., to the Rio Grande; its banners fluttered in the sunlight from Kansas to the North Carolina line; the crack of its rifles startled the echoes in the valley of the Platte and along the hillsides of the Tennessee and the Chattahoochie; and the tramp of its soldiers resounded in the dusty highways of twelve different states. It hunted guerrillas in Missouri, combated Longstreet's Virginia veterans at Chickamauga, stormed the blazing heights of Mission Ridge, fought a continuous battle from Kenesaw Mountain to Atlanta, and broke through Hood's lines at the battle which annihilated the rebel army of the West." —Gov. John A. Martin, in Kan. Adj. Gen. Mil. Hist'y of Kan. Regt's, 1870, p. 265

The third flag of the Eighth Kansas infantry was carried from directly after the battle of Nashville, 1864, until final muster-out, January 9, 1866. It was never in battle—the regiment followed its shining stars and bright folds over land and sea a distance of 4409 miles.

*Co. A was mustered in August 28, 1861; Co. K not until January, 1862. Colonel Martin says the regiment served four years, four months, and eleven days. The colonels were Henry W. Wessels, Robert H. Graham, and John A. Martin.

The permanent organization of the regiment was effected March 27, 1862. It was mustered out at Leavenworth, Kan., and Duvall's Bluff, Ark., November, 1864, and July, 1865. Edward Lynde, colonel. This regiment lost by death 257 men.

"The regiment to which I belonged was a sort of travelers' life insurance company. It did business in several states and territories, from the head waters of the Platte to the mouth of the Arkansas, with perfect impunity, and it is doubtful whether the eighteen hundred members whose names appeared on its muster rolls from first to last were ever safe from death, except during their term of service in that regiment. And yet I think braver or better men never went to war. They did their duty well, but for that regiment, glory, like the 'milk sickness,' was always over the next hill. In the drama of war it performed the culinary act."—A. R. Greene, in Prentiss's Kansas Miscellanies, page 28.

"Owing to the fact that the companies composing the regiment were, soon after the regimental organization, so widely scattered, and on account of the nature and character of the duty they were called upon to perform, it is impossible to give in detail an account of each battle and skirmish in which each part was engaged. It is unquestionably true, however, that the duty they were called on to perform was of the most dangerous and arduous kind, and required the most vigilant care and sound judgment on the part of each officer and man. Had the regiment been, from its organization, kept together and assigned a place where distinction was awarded for valiant and faithful service, it would undoubtedly have carved out for itself a record which would have given still additional luster to the already enviable fame which justly belongs to it as well as to the other heroic regiments sent forth by the state of Kansas."—Kan. Adj. Gen. Mil. Hist'y of Kan. Regt's, 1870, p. 286.

"The Ninth marched more miles and did less fighting than any other regiment sent from Kansas to the civil war. With a personnel unsurpassable in all soldierly qualities, Opportunity passed it by, Fate frowned upon it, and Politics was the strongest enemy it ever knew."—A. R. Greene, Co. A, Ninth Kansas.

Osceola was destroyed September 23, 1861, before the consolidation of the Third and Fourth regiments in the Tenth.

"The Tenth served at the battle of Fort Blakely. General Gilbert, the commander of the brigade, said:

" . . . The Tenth Kansas, a little band of heroes, rushed forward as into the jaws of death, with a determination to conquer or die. . . . Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon them. I am at a loss for words to express my admiration of them and their gallant officers, and when I say that Lieutenant-colonel Hills is worthy to command such men, language is exhausted in his praise."

"The fact is that this regiment actually captured Fort Blakely, taking four times their number prisoners, and capturing nine pieces of artillery. Such heroism, crowned with such results, is of rare occurrence, and it is doubtful whether the annals of the late war will show an act equal to it. Alone in the great army around Mobile, not another regiment from their own home (Kansas) to assist them in maintaining the fair name of their state, it devolved on the little band of the Tenth veterans to see that the name of Kansas soldiery was not tarnished by their neglect, and to extort their individuality, so to speak, from that strange army. This they did; being, after the battle of Blakely, the favorite regiment of their corps.

"Their dead sleep on the wooded hills of Prairie Grove, on the plains around Nashville, and in the morasses of Mobile; their maimed and wounded are in all our villages; but the memory of heroic deeds and lofty fidelity to principle still lives in the hearts of a grateful people, and the records of the office of the adjutant-general will hand down to a just and appreciative posterity their history without spot or blemish."—Kan. Recruiting for this regiment began August 8, 1862, and its final organization as an infantry regiment was completed on the 14th of September. August, 1863, it was changed to a cavalry regiment, and, after service in Price's raid, was detailed, in February, 1865, to the northern district of the plains, and engaged in the Indian campaigns of the Northwest. It was mustered out at Fort Leavenworth, September 20, 1865. Its colonels were, Thomas Ewing, jr., and Thomas Moonlight. This regiment lost by death 166 men.

"The Eleventh was the most truly Kansan in its composition of any of the regiments of the Spartan state furnished to the Union army. In its original organization there was not a single refugee or non-resident in its ranks. Every member of the regiment was a bona fide citizen of Kansas.

Neither were they recruited from the rabble of cities or the floating population of towns. The only considerable place in all the district in which the regiment was raised was Leavenworth, which furnished a bare half-dozen recruits. The farms and shops furnished the major portion of the men, who thus represented the best portion of Kansas population—what there was of stability, order, virtue, and love of freedom. As the service then rendered was in obedience to the impulses of patriotism and the convictions of duty, so those services were untarnished by acts of lawlessness. A strong esprit du corps pervaded the regiment during the whole of its service.”—Senator P. B. Plumb, in Kan. Adj. Gen. Mil. Hist'y of Kan. Regt's, 1870, p. 214.

This regiment lost by death 108 men.

SEVENTEENTH KANSAS REGIMENT, INFANTRY.

No Flag.

"In response to the President's call of April 23, 1864, for troops to serve 100 days, five companies were recruited in Kansas and organized into a battalion, which, on the 28th of July, was mustered into service at Fort Leavenworth. . . . The Seventeenth was for a short time employed in garrison duty at Fort Leavenworth, but was soon divided, detachments being ordered to Fort Riley, Cottonwood Falls, and Lawrence. In September the battalion was ordered to Paola, Lieut-col. Samuel A. Drake being placed in command of the post. The subsequent movements of the battalion were in connection with the invasion of General Price, in October, 1864."—Cutler's History of Kansas, 1883, p. 200.

The Third Kansas volunteer battery was organized as a cavalry company during the last months of 1861, and assigned as company B to the new regiment then in process of formation, known first as the Twelfth and then as the Ninth Kansas volunteers, but finally organized as the Second Kansas cavalry, March 27, 1862. It remained with the Second Kansas until after the capture of the rebel battery at Old Fort Wayne, Ark., October 22, 1862, when it was detached from the Second Kansas and ordered to man the captured battery, afterwards called Hopkins's battery. It was mustered out at Fort Leavenworth, January 19, 1865. It was commanded by Capts. Henry Henry Hopkins and John F. Aduddell. This battery lost by death 22 men.

INDEPENDENT COLORED KANSAS BATTERY, LIGHT ARTILLERY.

This battery was mustered at Fort Leavenworth for three years or during the war. The date of muster is uncertain, though date of individual enlistments run back to July, 1864. The captain in command, H. Ford Douglass, was mustered February 27, 1865. A letter to the adjutant-general, from the mustering officer, dated September 15, 1864, and transmitting the rolls of the Seventeenth Kansas, mentions this battery as not yet organized, and another, dated February 20, 1865, inquires for information from the "original detachment muster-in rolls" of the battery on file in his office. Mustered out at Leavenworth, July 22, 1865.

EIGHTEENTH KANSAS BATTALION, CAVALRY.

No Flag.

During the month of July, 1867, a battalion of four companies was organized by authority from Lieutenant-general Sherman, to protect the western settlements, and to guard the employees of the Union Pacific Railway, Eastern Division, and the travel on the great highways leading to the West and Southwest. The battalion consisted of 358 officers and enlisted men, and was commanded by Horace L. Moore, major. They were organized for a period of four months. They discharged their duties faithfully, and received the commendation of the officers of the regular army as good and faithful soldiers. About ten per cent. of their number fell during their short term of service.

The battalion served four months on the plains, marched about 2200 miles, and fought a battle with the Cheyennes on Prairie Dog creek, a branch of the Republican, in which it suffered a loss of fourteen officers and men, killed and wounded. The regiment was mustered in July 15, and mustered out November 15, 1867.

NINETEENTH KANSAS REGIMENT, CAVALRY.

"The total of losses from Indian depredations in western Kansas from September 12, 1868, to February 9, 1869, exclusive of the casualties incident to military operations, was 158 men murdered, sixteen wounded, and forty-one scalped. Three scouts were killed, fourteen women outraged, one man was captured, four women and twenty-four children were carried off." On the 9th of October, 1878, General Sheridan called on Gov. S. J. Crawford, of Kansas, for a twelve-company regiment of cavalry, to be mustered into the United States service for this winter campaign. In his official report, Gen. George A. Custer, said:

"As the term of service of the Nineteenth Kansas cavalry is approaching its termination, and I may not again have the satisfaction of commanding them during active operations, I desire to commend them—officers and men—to the favorable notice of the commanding general. Serving on foot, they have marched in a manner and at a rate that would put some of the regular regiments of infantry to the blush. Instead of crying out for empty wagons to transport them, each morning every man marched with his troop, and, what might be taken as an example by some of the line officers of the regular infantry, company officers marched regularly on foot at the head of their respective companies; and now, when approaching the termination of a march of over 300 miles, on greatly deficient rations, I have yet to see the first straggler.

"In obtaining the release of the captive white women, and that, too, without ransom or the loss of a single man, the men of my command, and particularly those of the Nineteenth Kansas, who were called into service owing to the murder and depredations of which the capture of these women formed a part, feel more fully repaid for the hardships they have endured than if they had survived an overwhelming victory over the Indians."

"The campaign was a most arduous one, prosecuted without adequate camp equipage, in the midst of winter, and much of the time with an exhausted commissariat. The regiments of Kansas have glorified our state on a hundred battle-fields, but none served her more faithfully or endured more in her cause than the Nineteenth Kansas cavalry."—Col. Horace L. Moore, in his history of the regiment, Kan. Hist. Soc. Col., vol. 6, p. 47.

The Nineteenth Kansas was mustered into service at Topeka, November 4, 1868, and mustered out at Fort Hays, April 18, 1869. Colonels, Samuel J. Crawford and Horace L. Moore.

"The American nation appreciates the devotion and valor of its soldiers and sailors. Among its host of brave defenders, the Twentieth Kansas was fortunate in opportunity and heroic in action, and has won a permanent place in the hearts of a grateful people."—William McKinley, September 30, 1899.

"The records of the War Department show that the Twentieth regiment of Kansas volunteers sailed from San Francisco on the steamship 'Indiana' on the 27th of October, 1898, and on the steamship 'Newport' on the 9th of November, 1898, arriving at Manila on the 1st and 6th days of December following; that the regiment was engaged in actual battle, sustaining losses by death or wounds, on each of the following days, viz.: The 4th, 5th, 7th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 17th, 23d, 24th, 26th and 28th of February, 1899; the 11th, 12th, 13th, 23d, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 29th and 31st of March; the 25th and 26th of April; the 4th and 24th of May, and the 16th and 22d of June.

"The regiment left the Philippines for home on the 3d of September, 1899, just six months after it was entitled to be discharged from service under the act of Congress.

"The greater part of the engagements above mentioned were fought, and most of the losses of life were incurred, at a time when there was no obligation for further service resting upon the members of the regiment, except that which was self-imposed upon them by their own love of country and their determination to maintain the rightful sovereignty of the United States and the honor of its flag.

"I beg to join with the people of Kansas in welcoming to their homes these citizen soldiers, so worthy of the heroic origin and patriotic history of their state."—Elihu Root.

The regiment lost by death 68 men. By comparison, this is a greater loss than that of any other volunteer regiment in the Philippines.

May 13, 1898, the regiment was mustered into the service of the United States at Topeka; October 28, 1899, it was mustered out at the Presidio, San Francisco. Its colonels were Frederick Funston and Wilder S. Metcalf.

TWENTY-FIRST KANSAS REGIMENT, INFANTRY.

The Twenty-first regiment was mustered in May 12 to 14, 1898. On the 17th of May it started from Topeka and went into camp at Camp George H. Thomas, Georgia, where it remained until August 25, 1898; from thence to Camp Hamilton, Kentucky; and on September 25, 1898, it started for Fort Leavenworth, where it was mustered out December 10, 1898. This regiment lost by death twenty-one men. Thos. G. Fitch, colonel.

TWENTY-SECOND KANSAS REGIMENT, INFANTRY.

This regiment was mustered in May 11 to 17, 1898, and broke camp at Topeka and proceeded to Camp Alger, Virginia, arriving there May 28. After two months of drill, the regiment marched to Thoroughfare, Va., and on August 27 it was removed by rail to Camp Meade, Middletown, Pa. The regiment was mustered out November 3, 1898. The Twenty-second was composed largely of farmers' sons and young men from the various institutions of learning. Company H was made up entirely of students from the University, Agricultural College, and the State Normal. This regiment lost by death fourteen men. Henry C. Lindsey, colonel.

TWENTY-THIRD KANSAS REGIMENT, INFANTRY.No Flag.

This was a two-battalion organization of eight companies, composed entirely of colored men. August 22, 1898, the regiment proceeded by rail to New York. It sailed from New York August 25, and arrived at Santiago, Cuba, August 31, 1898. The regiment returned to the United States March 5, 1899, and was mustered out at Fort Leavenworth, April 10, 1899. Excellent discipline was maintained and all duties were cheerfully and faithfully performed. This regiment lost by death fourteen men. James Beck, colonel.

THESE FLAGS.

Capt. Joseph G. Waters, of Topeka, before the pupils of the Lowman Hill public school, Topeka, in an address, September 29, 1906, the one hundredth anniversary of the unfurling of the flag on Kansas soil, paid this beautiful tribute to the flag :

“I have seen the flag filigree a town. I have seen it swing and sway to the rhythm of a big bass drum; I have seen it saucily flaunt its colors to the sun as Yankee Doodle came hot, palpitating and vibrant from the yelping fifes. I have seen the flag lift from stately domes, and aureole the Goddess of Liberty with the sheen of its stripes. I have seen it surge with the battle line, dim by smoke, lift by a cheer, advance to the cadence of artillery, and rise in the sky on the summits of victory. I have seen it cover the stilled form of a comrade. I have caught its glimmer and glow out in the sandy reaches of the desert, above the pulsing breast of the earth, quivering with the trembling air that hugged its hot and bloodless bosom. I have seen it rise out of the depths of the ocean as my heart choked in my gullet. I have seen the prisoner fresh from Andersonville, with the bay of bloodhounds still in his ears, as the blood froze in his veins, when over the trees it glistened a glorified thing against the boundless blue. In a strange land, the people strange, the speech alien, I have felt it come into my homesick eyes, the sweetest, daintiest morsel, other than woman, the Almighty has yet molded into form. I have seen it head the grand reviews, when each step was the footfall of a hero, each glint of bayonets a victory, amid the huzzas of a triumphant people. And eye and heart can conjecture no place the flag floats, nor time, nor scene, nor circumstance, when it is gilded by sunlight or sombered by a cloud, that it is not the symbol of beauty, of grandeur and glory, save, solitary and alone, when it is lifted in injustice; and never will God mate His own stars, His heaven’s own blue and the crimson of his mornings with dishonor!”

THE KANSAS SOLDIER.

By Capt. HENRY E. PALMER, Company A, Eleventh Kansas

"While our men had become desperate hunters of desperate criminals, and had for years given and asked no quarter, yet when Gens. Sterling Price and Joe Shelby led their armies into our field they were met and fought with as much chivalry and soldierly courtesy as was accorded to the regular Confederate army by our men on the Potomac. When General Marmaduke, General Cabell and seven Confederate colonels surrendered with over 1000 men at Mine Creek, Kan., in October, 1864, some of their captors were Kansas men of my company and regiment, who were prompt in according them fair treatment, manifesting no spirit of revenge. Our men divided the contents of their haversacks with the hungry rebels. So at Prairie Grove, Van Buren, Newtonia, Westport, and wherever and whenever we met the regular Confederate army, wearing the gray, and carrying their flag, no Confederate soldier had cause to complain of ungenerous or unkind treatment from Kansas soldiers. . . .

"We were regularly mustered and drew our pay; wore the blue and fought the gray; obeyed orders, and, after Lee's surrender, fought Indians from the Missouri river to the crest of the Rockies and north to the Yellowstone. The soldiers constituting the large armies east of the Mississippi were indeed fortunate in comparison with the troops in the army of the frontier and the district of the border, detailed on the fearful and thankless duty of fighting bushwhackers. Were the former killed in battle and left in the hands of the enemy, an honorable burial and un mutilated body were awarded them; were they wounded, medical aid and care were bestowed upon them; if captured, the prospect of an exchange of prisoners was ever before them. Contrast this treatment with the unfortunate fate of the Union soldier on the border, in the hands of the guerrillas. If killed, their poor, inanimate bodies were outraged and mutilated; if wounded, they were often forced to suicide, or torture and death in the end. There were practically no captures, for surrender meant death; no battle-stained flags, no heroic pages in history, no honor or special credit. 'Murdered by bushwhackers,' 'killed by Indians,' is the brief record to be found in the adjutant-general's office. Don't forget that our enemy was as often clad in the Union blue as in the butternut or rebel gray. We met sometimes face to face, with hands on our weapons, both parties in doubt; some short questioning, a faltering answer; a sign, a move, draw, fire! and let the dead bite the dust. . . .

"We saved Kansas and Nebraska from the rebel horde; saved our western settlements from Gen. Albert Pike's Christian scheme of annihilation by his Indian allies; kept open and comparatively safe communication with the Pacific coast, and preserved the proper alignment of the right wing of that grand phalanx of army corps that extended from the Atlantic to the crest of the Rockies; served where we were commanded to serve, and have the consciousness of having done our duty.

"Kansas furnished for the war in defense of the Union 20,097 soldiers out of a population of 140,179—more than one out of eight a soldier. The census of 1860 shows 107,206. Enlistments from Kansas were 3443 more than the quota. The proportion of deaths in action or from wounds was 2.79 per cent. more than that of any of the twenty-four loyal states, and 25.91 per cent. above the average of all the states."

THE MARKING OF THE SANTA FE TRAIL.

A paper read by MISS ZU ADAMS before a Conference of Local Historical Societies at Providence, R. I., December 28, 1906.

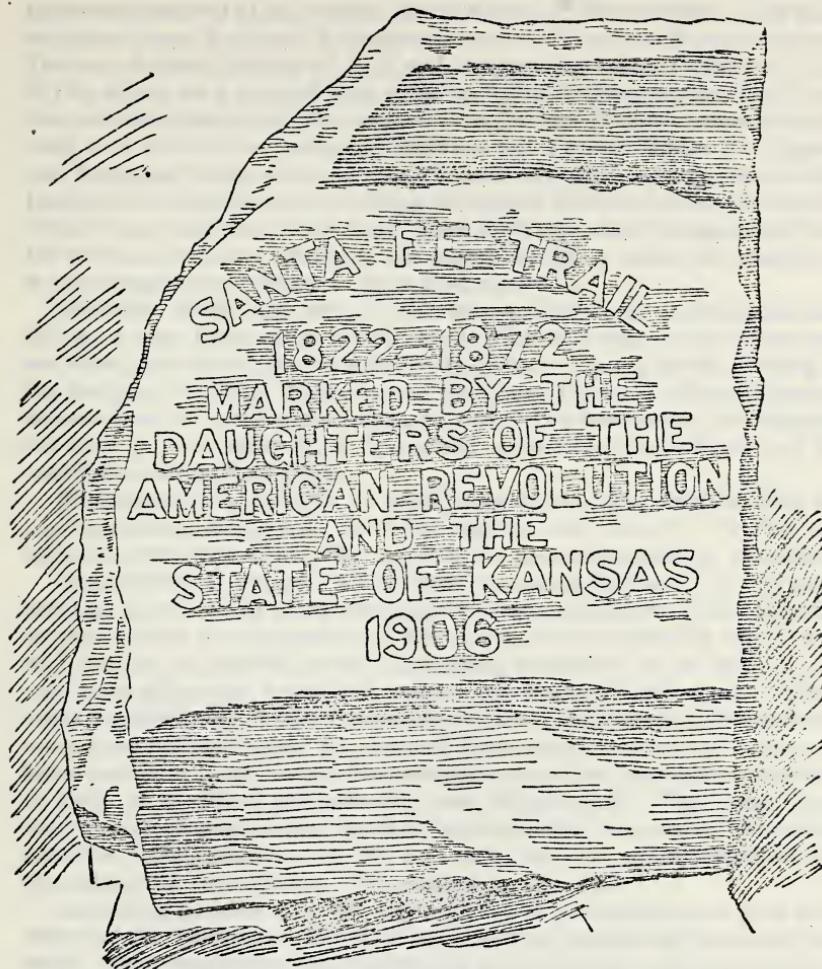

It came about at this time through the need of the Kansas Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution to mark something. One of the tenets of the national society is "to perpetuate the memory of the spirit of the men and women who achieved American independence by the acquisition and protection of historical spots, and the erection of monuments." No incident of the revolution occurred on Kansas soil, and, so far as records show, neither the Kansas nor Osage Indians participated in that war, though they had twenty years before obeyed the summons of the French to the defeat of Braddock. The Kansas Daughters, not wishing to build memorials in their ancestral states, puzzled over the possibilities of raising shrines to patriotism within their own boundaries. Eastern Kansas was scarred all over in the war which dedicated her soil to freedom in the '50's, but that strife was fraternal, and is best forgotten, at least by a society whose ancestors hail from the South as well as from the North.

Our chapters had each done something locally to mark historic points, and had helped in a modest way in the erection of the monument on the site of the old village of the Pawnee republic, where Lieutenant Pike, in 1806, had persuaded the Indians to lower the Spanish flag and raise that of the United States. It was a woman, by the way, who fostered that enterprise, and enabled Kansas during the last September to celebrate her first centennial.

The state regent of the Kansas Daughters of the American Revolution in 1902, Mrs. Fannie G. Thompson, of Topeka, recalled the earliest known mark of civilization upon our soil, the "thread of empire" which ran from New Santa Fe, on our Missouri border, to the point where the Cimarron river cuts our southwest boundary, a length of nearly 500 miles. The old trail was fast becoming obliterated. Only that part lying south of the Arkansas now runs unbrokenly for any length. A recent Kansas writer thus describes this portion:

"Crossing the plains of southwestern Kansas on the main traveled road between Richfield and Hugoton, just before it descends into the sandy lowlands of the Cimarron river, the traveler comes to a broad and well defined highway of ancient use. It is enclosed with pastures, and bears neither commerce nor horsemen, but it is plain that it was made by hoofs and wheels. Four wagon tracks run parallel in a width of 100 feet; the ruts worn by the wheels, the paths of the oxen that drew the wagons, and the little ridges between. Straight as the crow flies it traverses the plain. From the very edge of the northeastern sky-line it may be traced with the naked eye, so light and dry is the atmosphere, and it is followed with the same distinctness in its march toward the southwest until it disappears over the rim of the horizon."

Just what means Mrs. Thompson would have chosen to carry out her idea of marking the trail is not known, for her death occurred in February, 1903, the year named in Kansas annals as that of the great flood, when all women's organizations dropped their special line of work and with purse and hand hastened to give the needed relief. The Daughters, at their conference in October, 1904, revived Mrs. Thompson's suggestion, and adopted it in her memory.

It was not then definitely known through what counties the trail ran, though the line of the Santa Fe railroad was generally supposed to have followed its course. The Historical Society was asked to furnish a map. That of Lieut. G. K. Warren, in volume 11 of the Pacific Railroad Surveys, entitled "Map of the Territory of the United States from the Mississippi to the Pacific Ocean," published in 1854, was found to be the best, though, as our county lines were not then laid out, the route was still indefinite. Prof. F. H. Hodder, of our State University, suggested that we procure from the War Department the map and field-notes of the survey made by the Sibley commission, in 1825-'27, of a wagon road from Fort Osage, Missouri, to Taos, the first settlement in the direction of Santa Fe, in New Mexico. Copies of these were secured at an expense to the society of thirty dollars. The commissioners were Benjamin H. Reeves, George C. Sibley, and Thomas Mather. The map is dated October 27, 1827, and is signed by Joseph C. Brown. It is in two sheets, on a scale of four miles to the inch, with the degrees of latitude and longitude upon the margins. As the trail through Kansas for the most part follows the watershed between the Kansas, Marais des Cygnes and Arkansas rivers, the map depicts numerous little streams, many with forgotten or obsolete names, running in opposite directions across its course. This old map and notes have never been published, and it is probable that, the survey in the main justifying the course already in use by the teamsters, it was thought unnecessary to go to that expense.

However, when this map of 1827 was submitted to a draftsman and laid down upon the present county map of Kansas, it met with protests from our oldest inhabitant, the old settler who came to Kansas at the opening of the territory, in 1854. Wagons came first upon the trail, which is thought to have been of prehistoric origin, in 1822. The later travel had changed the route in some places from three to six miles either north or south of the road followed in Sibley's time.

Finding our map at fault in some respects, the older settlers along the trail were called upon to lay down the road as they found it. To this they have cheerfully responded, offering, besides, their help in placing the stones.

The question of material for markers was next discussed. If the chapters had been located along the trail the work would have probably begun by the erection of monuments of stone and cement within the territory of each chapter, as suitable material lies along two-thirds of its length. The case being otherwise, a uniform marker was finally decided upon. After a hasty consideration, it was concluded that the most durable, effective and economical material could be obtained from cement stone, the monument being cast in a mold bearing the inscription, and that a suitable stone could be made at a cost of not more than two dollars each. This would leave the expense of placing to be borne by public-spirited citizens in the favored localities. The legislature of 1905 was called upon to appropriate $1000 for the making of the markers. The request was granted.

As soon as possible after the adjournment of the legislature a joint committee of the Daughters and of the State Historical Society met to map out the work. To a committee was assigned the task of letting a contract for from 300 to 400 cement markers, 16 x 16 inches at the base, 28 inches high at back, with face sloping from this back to a 21-inch front, and bearing the inscription "Santa Fe Trail. 1822-1872. Marked by the Daughters of the American Revolution and the State of Kansas, 1905." It was thought that this square block, weighing between 400 and 500 pounds, could be placed at the sides of our present roads, where they crossed the old trail, and that, being broad of base, they would need no foundation but a leveled spot on the firm prairie soil, far enough back from the beaten track to avoid friction with the wagon-wheels. The act of gift provided a fine for the defacing of the markers. Several cement-stone yards were asked to bid. The result was an offer of three stones, varying in quality and price from two to five dollars. Before the job could be let the annual conference of Daughters met, and, reconsidering the markers, decided that the stone should be enlarged to a base 20 x 20 inches square, and lengthened to 48 inches back and 45 front, and that the best quality of cement stone should be used. The marker had waxed in size, also in price, and a growing distrust being felt by some members of the committee in the efficacy of cement blocks to withstand the winter's cold and the summer's heat, coupled with a longing for beautiful material, finally led to the adoption, in the fall of 1906, of a red granite, from the town of Granite, Okla. A contract was let to a local dealer for seventy markers at sixteen dollars each, the stones to be dressed on one side only, on which the inscription as given above should be cut, the marker to have a base of at least two square feet, and to weigh between 700 and 1000 pounds. The act of gift requires the state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the secretary of the State Historical Society to be jointly responsible for the proper erection of the markers.

Time was growing short when the contract was finally let, and a man who believes time and tide are as ruthless with women's projects as with men's, persuaded the Daughters to retain a part of their fund for freight and the expense of setting. The Santa Fe railway, however, has promised to carry the stones free of cost, and the localities where they have so far been received have gladly borne the expense of the concrete foundation the stones require. It is hoped this generosity will enable enough additional stones to be secured to set at least four in each of the twenty-one counties through which the trail ran.

While the stone was being considered another committee was enlisting the cooperation of the school children of Kansas in the enterprise. The state superintendent of public instruction was asked that the observance of Kansas day, January 29, 1906, in the public schools, should center about the history of the Santa Fe trail. With this object in view, the committee selected literature appropriate to the topic, which was published in two of the leading educational journals of the state, and distributed among the teachers. This resulted in the general observance of the day. One of the features of trail day in the schools was the reading of original essays by the pupils, the sum of fifty dollars being offered in prizes for the best essays on the trail or upon some local historical subject. A fine national flag was also offered to the school taking up the largest penny collection. This collection, after paying all expenses connected with the observance of the day, amounted to some $600.

The Kansas City (Missouri) Historical Association is marking the trail from Westport Landing, as the old levee was called, through the town to its junction with the trail in Kansas, by setting bronze tablets in the walls of buildings. The tablet represents an ox team, freight wagon and drivers emerging from the wooded bottoms of the landing, while a mounted scout is galloping out before them upon the prairie. Below this design are the words: "This marks the route of the Santa Fe trail, Kansas City to Santa Fe, 1822-1880." At either end of the inscription are the seals of Kansas City and Santa Fe.

The work of placing the stones has now been discontinued until the warm spring weather will permit a renewal of the gatherings, which have thus far made a neighborhood celebration of the occasion. The first settler has been invited to repeat his recollection of trail days to an interested audience of old and young. The children have also taken an active part with songs and recitations, and it is believed that the marking of the old Santa Fe trail will result in the awakening of a historic conscience akin to patriotism in the minds of the children of Kansas.

KANSAS NEWSPAPERS.

The following is a list of the newspapers and periodicals published in Kansas, February 1, 1907. The regular issues of these, with very few exceptions, are now being received by the Kansas State Historical Society. They are the free gift of the publishers of the state. They are bound in annual or semiannual volumes, and are preserved in the library of the Society in the state capitol for the free use of the people. They number 828 in all. Of these, 71 are dailies, 647 weeklies, 12 semi-weeklies, 74 monthlies, 2 biweeklies, 4 semimonthlies, 1 bimonthly, 10 quarterlies, 1 every three weeks, 6 occasional. They come from all of the 105 counties of Kansas, and record the history of the people of all the communities and neighborhoods. The figures following the name of each county indicate the number of bound newspaper files for that county.

A SHORT STORY.

“Lest men suspect your tale untrue,
Keep probability in view.”—Gay.

In the introduction to the “Biglow Papers,” first series, Lowell speaks of persons who “have endeavored to glean the materials of revolutionary history from the lips of aged persons who took a part in the actual making of it, and, finding the manufacture profitable, continued the supply in an adequate proportion to the demand.”

He then writes a dozen Yankee lines picturing “Old Joe” and his military experience. Lowell was born within walking distance of Bunker Hill and Lexington, and old soldiers were plentiful in his youthful days.

Old Joe when Young Joe saw the English redcoats led by Percy, hurrying to Lexington and Concord, only saw them. But, the poet says, “the tale grew in wonder year by year, as every time he told it Joe drew near to the main fight, till, faded and grown gray, the original scene to bolder tints gave way,” and Joe got into the fight. “Himself had fired and seen a redcoat drop.” “Had Joe lived long enough,” Lowell says, “vanquished Percy would have” completed the tale, “by hammering stone in Concord jail.”

This fable teaches us what we may live to see; perhaps, indeed, what we have already seen; old wine in new papers; the history of Kansas from the lips of elderly persons who say they were in the fight, and know all about it.

The value and importance of the State Historical Society is this: Its library and collections contain thousands of newspapers, letters, documents and books made when the event occurred. These records are not “Old Joes.” The printed paper remains; it does not lapse into garrulous senility.—DANIEL W. WILDER.
